CHIEF JUSTICE TAFT RESIGNS

Drys Shun La Guardia Beer Test

SAY HE MUST SELL TO BE ARRESTED

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Federal prohibition authorities will not interfere with plans of Representative La Guardia (Rep.), of New York, to manufacture home brew in his New York home unless he "tries to bootleg."

Dr. James M. Doran, prohibition commissioner, announced today the prohibition bureau cannot enter LaGuardia's home and make a test case of him, as the Congressman plans, "unless there is a commercial violation" of the prohibition laws.

This means La Guardia will not set up his homebrew equipment. He announced Saturday he would submit himself for a test case only if Doran would promise to arrest him.

MUST SELL BEER

Such a violation means the manufacture and sale of homebrew, Doran explained. If such violations are reported, a warrant for the search of La Guardia's house will be issued and probable arrests made. Without reports of "commercial violations," La Guardia will be unmolested by the government's dry agents, Doran said.

The entire Presidential law enforcement commission headed by George W. Wickersham will be

POLICE SEEK WEAPONS IN TAXIS

Discovery of Knife Leads To One Driver's Arrest; Cab Wrecked in Attack

Taxicab drivers, their guards and the cabs themselves were being searched by police for firearms today as they left the Yellow Cab garage.

The search was to prevent a repetition of Saturday's shooting at Pennsylvania Railroad Station when an imported driver was wounded accidentally by a bullet in the foot from a guard's gun.

It was the first shooting in the strike which now is in its fourth week. Settlement of the strike today seemed as remote as it was when the Parmelee company subsidiary drivers walked out more than three weeks ago.

DRIVER HELD

A "bowie knife" and four bricks found in his cab when he was arrested today caused W. R. Ginger, 32, of St. Clair street, to be held for investigation. He denied knowing the knife was in the cab.

A. W. Brown, of Ingram, another driver, arrested when he insisted on parking his cab in front of the Fort Pitt Hotel, was discharged when arraigned in Central Police Court.

TAXI ATTACKED

A fake riot call summoned squads of police to Cherry way and First avenue this morning.

A cab driver was attacked yesterday at Robinson and Mendota streets, North Side, and the machine wrecked when it struck a water plug. A girl had hired the cab at the Pennsylvania Railroad Station and asked to be driven to

FUND GRAFT CHARGED TO BERKEY

Witness Recites Activities As Agent for 'Protection' In Somerset Rum Circles

Former Judge John A. Berkey, of Somerset County, engineered the sale of "protection" for bootleggers to obtain funds to re-elect himself to the bench, according to a witness who described himself as a political lieutenant of the jurist's in Federal Court today.

The witness—the star witness, in fact—was Claude A. M. Welsh, clerk in the Somerset prothonotary's office, testifying against Berkey and 14 other politicians and alleged bootleggers of Somerset County, who went on trial today on charges of conspiring to violate the liquor laws.

"Foster Ziegler (a defendant) told me in March of 1928 that Judge Berkey wanted to see me," Welsh related. "We went to Berkey's chambers.

NEEDED MONEY, HE SAID

"Berkey said he was going to run for re-election and needed money for campaign and publicity purposes, Ziegler said he was willing to give $1 on every gallon of whisky he sold.

"Berkey told me to take Ziegler around to al lour political friends and to see that they bought Ziegler's whisky. We went around, Ziegler got many orders. We went to the political friends of the judge in various parts of the county. We told these men they would be guaranteed protection if they bought from Ziegler."

WAS NOT CANDIDATE

Berkey's term as judge ended January 1. He did not run for re-election although he announced before the primary that he might run at the general election on a nonpartican ticket.

Welsh testified that Ziegler later introduced to him Peter Hanlon and William Dittman, whom he described as "two intelligent fellows from Pittsburgh" who were going to help out "our campaign

Grundy Aid Sought By Brown Backers

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Three members of the Philadelphia Republican organization "war board" went to Washington today to urge Senator Grundy, it was said, to support former Attorney General Francis Shunk Brown for governor. They were James M. Hazlett, chairman of the Republican City Committee; Sheriff Thomas W. Cunningham and Councilman Charles B. Hall. They called on Mayor Mackey several weeks ago in an effort to effect a solid front in Philadelphia for Mr. Brown, and later visited Gov. Fisher at Harrisburg.

RETIREMENT ENDS LIFE OF LABOR FOR U. S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—William Howard Taft, broken in health by years of labor for the nation, has resigned the exalted post of Chief Justice of the United States.

Through his son, Robert A. Taft, he submitted his resignation today to President Hoover while he himself prepared to return to Washington from Asheville, N. C., where he went several weeks ago to recuperate from a near breakdown.

Although the resignation came suddenly so far as the public at large was concerned, those in the inner circle of the Supreme Court had been expecting for several days that the former President—the only man, incidentally, who has been both President and chief justice—would be compelled to give up his exacting duties on the bench.

WORN AND WORRIED

He had seemed worn and worried for weeks and it appeared to be only a matter of time when a successor should be named. What that successor will be remains to be seen, because President Hoover has not yet accepted Mr. Taft's resignation.

Nevertheless, immediately upon announcement of the chief justice's resignation, names began to crop up in profusion as to a successor.

Besides those already on the highest tribunal, including Justice Harlan F. Stone, of New York, there came into the picture Calvin Coolidge, another former President, and Charles Evans Hughes, who once served on that august tribunal.

DELAY EXPECTED

Those familiar with presidential and Supreme Court procedure, however, expected that President Hoover would consider for some time before making a selection.

Chief Justice Taft was a sick man recently when he went to

Teaching Golf

MRS. H. K. HITCHCOCK

TEACHES GOLF TO MRS. EDISON

FT. MYERS, Fla., Feb. 3.—Mrs. H. K. Hitchcock, of 5710 Bartlett street, Pittsburgh, teaching Mrs. Thomas A. Edison the game of golf on the local links, has made such good progress that the inventor today ordered his wife a set of new clubs. Mr. Edison himself continues to forswear the Scotch game on the plea that it is "too much work."

Mrs. Hithcock, a sister of Mrs. Edison, is a house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edison. Less than a week ago they went to the Ft. Myers golf course and Mrs. Edison missed her first tee shot entirely. She got 90 yards on the second attempt and wound up at the end of nine holes with a card of 99.

Mr. Edison will be 85 years old on February 11 and a memorial shaft will be unveiled here in his honor.

CANADA TO ASK SHOOTING QUIZ

DETROIT, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Arthur La Framboise, a Canadian citizen, was wounded on the Detroit River at 1 a. m. today by bullets which he said were fired by two United States customs border patrol inspectors while he was on the Canadian side of the river.

Col. S. C. Robinson, member of Parliament from Essex West, announced he would ask the Canadian government to make an investigation of the affair.

Customs officers said they had received no reports of any shootings on the river, although agents had been operating in the region.

La Framboise, whose home is at La Salle, Ontario, said he was shot while making for home across the ice after having assisted a friend in freeing a sled load of liquor caught in the ice. He had driven out on the river in his automobile and had started back in the car, but was forced to continue afoot when the ice gave way. The car sank into the river.

The shooting took place off the head of Fighting Island on the Canadian side, La Framboise said. He proceeded to a liquor export dock where the employes took him to a hospital.

Edward Hope, Once Shriner Chief, Dies

Edward Hope, 71, former business manager of the Pittsburgh Leader, died at his home at 231 Rochelle street, Knoxville, at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon. His death followed an illness of five weeks.

Mr. Hope had been active in fraternal affairs of the Pittsburgh district for many years. He was a thirty-third degree Mason and served as potentate of Syria Temple in 1911. He leaves his widow, Martha Bell Hope; one son, Ralph Hope, of Wheeling, W. Va., and one daughter, Mrs. Maria D'Tchon, of Cleveland Heights, Cleveland, Ohio.

Mail Flier Dies As Crash Hurls Plane to River

HARTFORD, Conn., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Pilot C. E. Pridham, of Boston, flying a plane for the Colonial Air Transport Service and carrying mail from Newark, N. J., to this city, drowned here early today when his plane struck a small building at Brainard Field, near the edge of the Connecticut River. The plane turned over and dropped into the river.

The machine was pulled from the water and the pilot's body recovered. Officials at the field said the plane came too low and the pilot evidently misjudged the distance in attempting to land.

Pridham was 29 and married.

WOMAN BEATEN BY STRANGLER

County detectives and Turtle Creek police today were seeking the motive of a mysterious attack by a masked man on Mrs. Mary Shaner, 34, in her third-floor apartment, 612 Penn avenue, Turtle Creek, last night.

Mrs. Shaner's life was saved, apparently, by bungling of an attempt to strange her.

Police believe her assailant may be the person responsible for three attempts in two days, last week, to set fire to her apartment.

Spain Denies Inviting Former Crown Prince

MADRID, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Reports that King Alfonso, of Spain, had invited the former Crown Prince of Germany and all other possessors of the Spanish order, "Collar of the Golden Fleece," to gather in Barcelona in the near future, were officially denied by the foreign office today. "No such invitation has been issued," the announcement said.

Hanson Judges to Discuss His Liberation Tonight

Visiting Judge William T. Darr announced today that he and Judges Josiah Cohen and Thomas J. Ford would meet tonight to discuss the release from jail of William Hanson, convicted slot-machine operator freed from jail after serving 16 days of a four-months' term. They are expected to issue a statement following the meeting.

Many protests followed the release. Judge Cohen said that he alone had received 150 letters bearing on the case.

Judge Darr presided at Hanson's trial and agreed to the slicing of the sentence later. Tonight's statement is expected to establish definitely whether Judges Cohen and Ford acted with Darr in reducing the jail term.

Woman War Novel Author Ousted by Legion

NEWTON, Mass., Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Miss Mary Lee, of Westport, N. Y., and this city, author of one of the two novels which shared a $25,000 prize in the American Legion contest for World War stories, has been dropped from the rolls of Post 48, American Legion, it became known today.

Miss Lee says she was "ejected."

Miss Lee, who served in France as a civilian employe of a base hospital, the air service and the Young Men's Christian Association, said she was invited to join the post upon her return from the war and that recently her dues had been refused.

Post Commander R. John Henderson said that when Miss Lee joined the post her war claims had not been investigated, that a women's post in Baltimore had made complaints regarding her eligibility because of her war record following the publication of her book "It's a Great War," that Legion headquarters at Indianapolis had notified the local post of its findings and that her paid membership in the local post had been allowed to lapse.

Taft 'Pretty Sick Man,' Very Weak, Doctor Says

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Former President William Howard Taft, who resigned today as chief justice of the United States, is a "pretty sick man," Dr. Francis Hagner, of Washington, his personal physician, said here today.

Mr. Taft decided to resign "because we felt it would be safer for him to do so," Dr. Hagner said.

Dr. Hagner would not permit reporters to see the chief justice, but Mr. Taft sent word by a member of his party that he had no comment to make.

Mr. Taft is "very weak and he is not improving," Dr. Hagner said, "and as he is not improving we feel that it would be safer to get him back to Washington."

Although preparations were being made to leave for Washington at 5 o'clock this afternoon, Taft remained in the seclusion of his suite throughout the day.

He came here three weeks ago to recuperate from an old organic trouble.

Mrs. Taft, informed that the announcement of her husband's resignation had been made in Washington, said "There is nothing to say."

"For 10 days, after coming to Asheville, he improved," Dr. Hagner said, "but since that time he has not been doing so well." The physician said Mr. Taft's blood circulation was "not good."

INCOME TAX DATA SHOWS BIG GAINS

Federal Tax Not Borne by Masses, Analysis Discloses; Speculative Gains Huge

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH, International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—American individuals and corporations of the Federal income tax paying class picked up $166,301,398,000 gross in 1928, which exceeded the preceding year by $12,986,217,000.

Figures to that purport were available today at the Bureau of Internal Revenue, which has just analyzed individual and corporate income for 1928.

Individuals had gross income of $28,499,000,000 according to 4,050,959 income tax returns. Net income of $24,625,488,000 was reported by 2,434,640 persons, a very small percentage of the total population. The federal tax burden is not borne by the masses.

PERSONAL GAINS

Net income of individuals gained $2,052,170,000 or 9.09 per cent between 1927 and 1928.

The answer to that prosperous condition is found in a table of statistics of income which shows the increase in money taken from speculative channels in 1928, as compared to 1927, was $1,129,778,000. Income from speculation—profits from sale of real estate and stocks and bonds other than capital net gain from sale of assets held more than two years—was $2,943,173,000 in 1928. That represented 10.33 per cent of the total net income.

Officials estimated that between January 1, 1928, and the end of September, 1929, when the market crashed, speculators who paid or will pay income taxes, amassed an actual profit of more than $7,000,000,000 from the stock market.

MARKET PROFITS

All income classes took their profit from the market. The "little fellows" with incomes less than $5,000 annually took a cut of $294,599,000 out of speculation. The $10,000-$25,000 class reaped a profit of $699,038,000 and $540,099,000 was taken by the $25,000-$50,000 class. The individuals with incomes over $1,000,000 annually speculated to the extent of $137,031,000 in profits.

Of all the income classes the group between $200,000 and $1,000,000 made the smallest amount out of the market.

In about six weeks income tax returns for 1929 will be filed. When these returns are analyzed it can be determined definitely just what the market crash cost the American speculating public. The paper losses have been estimated at gigantic figures, but all of them will not show up on the income tax returns.

Businessman Held As Fugitive Cashier

FORT WORTH, Tex., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—A Fort Worth business man was arrested today as Ernest Weinss, charged with embezzling more than $100,000 seven years ago from a Nez Perce (Idaho) bank.

Weinss was cashier of the Union State Bank of Nez Perce, and in 1921 was alleged to have fled with the money. A year later he was arrested in Spokane, Wash. While officers were bringing him back to face trial Weinss escaped.

The man arrested denied he was Weinss and said he would fight extradition.

Segrave Joins Big Aircraft Concern

LONDON, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Sir Henry Segrave, world's automobile speed record holder, who served with the Royal Air Force during the war, has been appointed technical adviser to a group of British business who are planning to develop a great air industry. This group, whose operations so far have been conducted with great secrecy, is reported to have laid aside $5,000,000 for preliminary work.

Robinson street. Upon reaching her destination, she ran into a doorway and disappeared, police say.

A moment later the cab was surrounded by a crowd of men. The cab crashed into the water plug when the driver, John W. Laughery, of 811 Locust street, attempted to speed away. He was cut and bruised. Lewis Yarman, of 409 Oakdale street, a deputy, was uninjured. Laughery was treated at the Allegheny General Hospital.

WAITER BEATEN

Nick Patiros, 40, of 1933 Chislett street, who, police say, has been carrying food from his Smithfield street restaurant into the Yellow Cab garage, was beaten by a crowd of men who attacked him at Smithfield street and the Boulevard of the Allies last night. He was treated at the Mercy Hospital.

In addition to the cab that went to the North Side yesterday, two other cabs are said to have made trips outside the downtown district. One cab was stoned at Fifth avenue and Boquet street. The driver fled during the excitement. The deputy awaited arrival of police and then left the cab and returned to the garage downtown.

Poincare, Again Fit, Cabinet Possibility

PARIS, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Raymond Poincare, former French premier, returned to Paris today from Southern France completely recovered from his recent operation, rested and feeling fit. Ostensibly he came back to resume his occupation as a private citizen but friends commented he was ready to step into any breach for his country's sake. He has been mentioned as a possible minister of finances in a reorganized Tardieu cabinet.

House 'Anti-Dry' Accompanies Rum Raiders

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Representative Schafer (Rep.), of Wisconsin, House anti-Prohibitionist, has for several months been accompanying police on prohibition raids in three precincts here, it was disclosed today.

"Surely, I've been doing considerable gumshoeing," he said. "I want to see how prohibition works at first hand, and one of the best ways to do it is to accompany these police when they go out for liquor violators.

"I wish some people could see the ravings and crazed antics of those liquor drinkers. Yet in spite of these facts, the dry crusaders continue to rant that the federal prohibition laws result in temperance."

Dog Saves Life Of Natural Enemy

MALONE, N. Y.—Dogs are not commonly known to befriend cats, yet one instance of such anomaly was witnessed here.

The cat had been missing three days. Its mistress hunted vainly for her, notwithstanding felines are supposed to return of their own will. Finally a state trooper, apprised of the lost pet, observed a dog standing on a rock ledge barking vociferously at an island in Salmon River. Search of the island brought forth the cat, a bit haggard at having been marooned three days, but still able to "spit" at the dog which had unwittingly saved her life.

JUDGE'S FATE NEAR JURY

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 3.—(INS.)—The fate of Judge John W. Brady, former assistant attorney general of Texas, and prominent in Democratic politics, charged with stabbing Lehlia Highsmith, 26-year-old stenographer, to death, was expected to be placed with a District Court jury here this afternoon.

The hearing of evidence came to a dramatic close with the vivid story told of the killing by Oda Green, 18-year-old youth, who witnessed the girl's death. The youth testified that Brady, who allegedly had been intimate with Miss Highsmith, attacked her with a pocket knife as she was bidding goodnight to her male companion in front of her boarding house.

Counsel for the white-haired jurist based their defense on temporary insanity induced by heavy drinking. The state presented many acquaintances of Judge Brady to refute the insanity claim.

Jury Being Picked In Hill Slaying

SUBURBS JOIN CHICAGO IN CASH CRISIS

Cook County Towns 'Broke' While City's Employes Wonder About Pay Day

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Chicago and Cook County had lots of company on the financial rocks today.

Several suburban governments had joined them, all in the quadary of payrolls to meet without moneys with which to do it.

The South Park Board, controlling the system of South Side parks, announced a 15 per cent reduction of wages. Its 1,300 employes, including 320 policemen, agreed to the "temporary" cut rather than to accept the alternative of a reduction in the number of employes. This is the first time the South Park Board, which is state controlled, has indicated the financial shoe was pinching.

City employes, payless for a month, may have some important news tomorrow when the council is to decide whether to ask the Citizens Relief Committee for $6,000,000 to meet police, fire and health department payrolls. Alderman John S. Clark, chairman of the City Council's Finance Committee, will ask aldermanic sanction for a meeting between representatives of the city and of the relief committee, relative to completion of the loan.

The suburb of Mt. Prospect parents have contributed cash to keep schools in operation; citizens of Arlington Heights are considering similar action; in Blue Island, the night schools have been closed to keep the day schools going; Flossmoor is borrowing from its water and sewer funds to meet other expenses; in Homewood, the teachers are paid up to next Wednesday, but after that the school board knows not where money for the payroll is coming from.

In other suburbs, it was the same story. Evanston is seeking to borrow $600,000 from New York bankers; affairs in Cicero are admittedly "as critical as in Chicago;" in Berwyn credit is exhausted and the village trustees admit they are "hard pressed," while Maywood is having "a hard time of it."

Congressmen Ask National Anthem Without Music

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Adopting a compromise in the bitter fight over the Linthicum bill making "The Star-Spangled Banner" the national anthem, the House Judiciary Sub-Committee has decided to recommend adoption of the poem but not the music, it was learned today.

Thus, the immortal poem of Francis Scott Key, written in 1814 when the British were attacking old Fort McHenry, could be set to any music desired and still be official.

The compromise, it is understood, was proposed because the song has been called "unsingable" and because the tune is that of an old English drinking song, "To Anacreon in Heaven."

"That is satisfactory to me," said Representative Linthicum (Dem.), of Maryland, the author. "Of course, everybody will use the same music."

BOTT CHANGES RUM PLEA

With the permission of Judge R. M. Gibson, C. W. Bott, former employe of the Fort Pitt Brewing Company, today withdrew his plea of no defense to charges of manufacturing beer and sale of alcohol, in Federal Court. The case will be placed on the trial list.

Bott's counsel, Charles B. Prichard, explained that when Bott entered the plea, the then Assistant United States Attorney Ralph H. Smith had promised to make a recommendation, presumably for a parole, to the court.

The charges grew out of evidence in the North Side booze conspiracy trial of politicians and police.

Weather Conditions.

The skies are overcast over much the greater portion of the country this morning, and light rain or snow is falling at scattered places. Low barometer is the dominating influence over the weather, with centers of disturbance over the panhandle of Texas, North Dakota and off the New England coast. As a result of the low pressure the temperatures are above the seasonal normal everywhere, with a tendency towards rising east of the Mississippi and towards falling over the northern plains. There is no cold weather this morning except over Ontario and Quebec, where the temperatures are considerably below zero. The precipitation for the last 24 hours was light and scattered.

River Conditions.

The rivers are about stationary. Stage at Franklin is 2.9 feet; Lock No. 7, 11.8; Pittsburgh, 11.0; Dam No. 4, 9.0; Dam No. 5, 8.1; Dam No. 9, 9.6, and Dam No. 12, 8.7. The dams are up.

butcher knife wrapped in a bath towel, she reported.

"I'll gut even with you now!" he muttered as he struck her several times, then choked her by twisting the towel around her throat. He pulled a diamond ring from her finger and fled.

Her moans attracted Mary and Lucille Shoff, sisters occupying an apartment on the same floor. They found her recovering consciousness as the towel's grip relaxed, and suffering from severe head lacerations and shock.

DROPS RING IN FLIGHT

The ring, which the intruder dropped in his haste to escape, was found under the ice box by Patrolman Daniel Muir.

The attempts to fire the building ocurred last Thursday and Friday, say the police.

Fires were started in a vacant room adjoining her apartment and later in the hallway. All were extinguished with slight damage.

Mrs. Shaner resides with her daughter, Eleanor, 12. The child was at a nearby church at the time of the attack.

NAVY PARLEY DODGES ON TONNAGE

U. S., Japan and Italy Pass Buck on Measurements To Britain and France

By HARRY B. FLORY, International News Service.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—The United States, Japan and Italy today "passed the buck" to Great Britain and France in the matter of responsibility for finding a solution to the controversy over the question whether naval limitation shall be by categorical or by global tonnage.

All three delegations announced definitely that they had no intention of submitting written observations on the French compromise proposal for limitation partly by catagorical and partly by global measurements, when the full committee of the five power naval conference met at St. James palace tomorrow.

The British delegation, however, already has written its observations on the French proposal, and is prepared to play a forced lone hand against the French demands although it is more than probable that the British will have at least the moral support of the American delegation.

Robinson's Naval Parley Speech in Senate Records

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—The radio address of Senator Robinson, of the American naval delegation in London, to the American people yesterday was called to the attention of the Senate today by Senator Walsh, of Montana, acting Democratic leader, who reminded members that Robinson had asked his colleagues here to be patient over the developments because of the intricacies involved in the negotiations.

The Montanan also noted the assurance in Robinson's address to the American public of the "high grade" of America's representatives and of their determination to see that this country's interests were protected. He put the speech in the record.

The new move to obtain from the commission a definite pronouncement upon the merits of prohibition and possibility of successful enforcement will be made when the judiciary committee opens hearing upon modification bills February 12.

SEEKS OPINION

"I expect to ask members of the commission as well as district attorneys and others charged with enforcement, to give their opinion as to whether legalizing of beer and light wines would not make enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment more effective," explained Dyer.

House to Take Up Bill Transferring Dry Unit

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—The House will begin formal consideration of the administration's proposal to transfer prohibition enforcement from the Treasury to the Department of Justice on Thursday, it was decided today as the Williamson bill was reported to the floor.

A fight over the measure was presaged by a minority report, signed by seven members of the Expenditures Committee, which protested against giving the Secretary of the Treasury joint power with the Attorney General in prescribing regulations for the issuance of industrial alcohol permits.

Pretty Widow Held As Liquor Runner

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—An attractive young widow, believed to be one of the two girl rum runners operating between here and Harrisburg, was in the hands of police today. The prisoner, Mrs. Victoria Lavella, alias Marie Bowman, 35, of Shoeneck, Lancaster County, was arrested at her home on charges of illegal possession and transportation of liquor. She is said to have been one of two sportily dressed women who dumped 75 gallons of liquor in a field near Devon January 5 after their machine collided with another automobile.

Mrs. A. I. DuPont Named In $1,000,000 Balm Suit

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Suit for $1,000,000 charging alienation of the affections of her husband, Thomas Ball, Los Angeles attorney, was filed in Circuit Court here today by Mrs. Mary Ball against her former sister-in-law, Mrs. Jessie Ball du Pont, joined with the latter's husband, Alfred I. du Pont.

Twelve counts are contained in the suit, directed specifically against Mrs. du Pont, which was filed by Gordon McCauley, attorney for Mrs. Ball. Praecipe in the litigation was filed last December.

The suit charges that Mrs. du Pont "wrongfully, wickedly and maliciously enticed, influenced and induced" Ball to abandon his wife, "thereby depriving Mrs. Ball of his affections, comfort, fellowship, society, aid and support."

It further was set-forth that Mrs. du Pont "maliciously poisoned and prejudiced the mind of Mrs. Ball's husband against her by telling him false stories about Mrs. Ball, treating the plaintiff with disrespect in the presence of the plaintiff's said husband, and by charging her, the plaintiff, of being poor white trash, extravagant, wasteful and suspicious of her husband."

PRINCESS XENIA-LEEDS DIVORCE CLOAKED IN MYSTERY

KIN OF ROYAL WIFE GIVEN SHOCK

Scion of Tin Plate King Too Gay for Austere Mate, Explanation of Friends

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Details of the grounds upon which the former Princess Xenia, of Russia, was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from William B. Leeds, Jr., who inherited millions made in tin plate remained a secret today.

Percy Stoddart, referee in the case, said he did not remember the grounds upon which the divorce was sought. In signing the decree at Huntington, L. I., Saturday, Justice Selah B. Strong said it was based on the findings of Stoddart, and he did not know what the grounds for the action were. There is only one cause for divorce in New York State.

PRINCESS TESTIFIES

Stoddart said he was appointed referee in December or January and held hearings in his office. He said Princess Xenia testified, among several witnesses. Leeds was represented by counsel. Stoddart said his partner, Henry Uterhart, was counsel for Mrs. Leeds.

The New York American says today that, although the announcement of the divorce came to the public as a surprise, in social circles it had been known that the couple separated nearly a year ago.

The American says a disparity in temperaments was declared by friends in society to have been responsible. Although of the royal blood of gay, exotic pre-war Russia, the former princess was by nature and by her rearing and cloistered youth, inclined to the dignified, the austere and the orthodox.

In contrast, Leeds had a penchant for the colorful, the gay and the dashing. Speed had become virtually an obsession with him. He delighted to entertain his guests in breath-taking rides in his fast boats. Mere dignity, cold formality, correctness had no appeal for him.

CHICAGO GANGS KILL FOURTH IN WEEK

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—The gangs are getting their eyes on the gun sights again. Four victims in less than a week, with Joe Cada, "The Dude," the latest.

Cada's killing was another of those "ride" affairs, with Cada being his own chauffeur and his own machine being his death car. The busy uptown section, with its night clubs still ablaze though the hour was the dawn of a Sabbath day, was the murder scene.

The roar of an elevated train, rumbling over the trestle across Broadway, served to drown the staccato of the assassins' shots. A milkman saw the Cada car slide to a halt near an "L" support, and two men get out, but he heard no shots.

The milkman believed there had been an accident and that the two men had gone for help. They walked leisurely, however, until they reached a cross street, down which they disappeared.

The slayers must have been friends of the man they killed, which is the only way police can explain their presence in the car. One sat in back, the other beside Cada in front. The position of the body and the appearance of the bullet wounds indicated that the man at Cada's side pressed a gun against "The Dude's" head and fired, the man behind also leaning forward and firing.

In some respects the manner of the murder was that employed in the killing last week of Barney Mitchell, Checker Cab Company treasurer, and Glen Jackson, driver of Mitchell's cab. In that crime the killers, probably two of them, sat in the tonneau with Mitchell.

COAL POLICE TO DEMAND NEW TRIAL

Pair Convicted in Borkowski Death Map Battle to Beat Verdict of Manslaughter

Attorneys for Walter J. Lyster and Harold P. Watts, former coal and iron policemen who were convicted Saturday of involuntary manslaughter in the death of John Borkowski, today were preparing to carry their fight for a new trial to higher courts. The men were convicted in Franklin, Venango County, Saturday. Frank Slapikas, the third defendant, was acquitted.

Immediately after the verdict was returned, a motion for a new trial and an arrest of judgment, based on a legal technicality concerning the double jeopardy of the defendants, was filed by Attorneys Edward G. Coll and Charles B. Prichard.

ACQUITTED HERE

The men had been tried for murder in Pittsburgh and acquitted. A change of venue was granted for the second trial on an involuntary manslaughter charge.

Arguments on both motions will be heard within 10 days after the testimony of the Franklin trial has been transcribed. It was decided by Judge William M. Parker. Decision on the arguments probably will not be handed down until the March term of court in Venango County.

VOTE UNANIMOUS

Only three ballots, one for each of the defendants were taken by the jury of four women and eight men who returned their verdict after five hours deliberation. The first ballot taken was for Slapikas and it was unanimous for his acquittal. The second ballot was for Watts and was unanimous for conviction. The third for Lyster also resulted in conviction.

Both Clunk and District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner stated they were pleased with the verdict. District Attorney Gardner also added that a fair and impartial trial was given the men by Judge Parker and the Venango County jury.

CHICAGO BLAST WRECKS STORE

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—A powerful dynamite bomb exploded here today, reducing the one-story fruit and vegetable store of Sam Madonia to twisted wreckage.

Several persons were injured.

The explosion spread terror throughout the West Side, rousing sleeping families who hurried to the streets in fright.

Fruit and vegetables were hurled a block away. A neighboring meat market and tailor shop were also wrecked.

Flames followed immediately.

Patrick J. Sherman, owner of the building, was blown from his bed and cut by flying glass. He was unable to give any reason for the place being bombed. Others injured were Samuel Tumia, Nicholas Aceture, his wife, Angela; Mrs. Anna Cici, two unidentified women and Policeman Joseph Jelinek.

Windows were broken and plaster cracked three blocks from the scene of the blast.

Undersea Boat Rescue Signal Device Tested

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Experiments are being conducted at the Navy Yard with a device to permit persons on a rescuing vessel to communicate with men trapped in a crippled submarine at the bottom of the ocean.

Capt. McDowell, chief engineer of the yard, said tests indicate the device is practicable.

The device may be used as a radio or with wires, and will displace the tapping system, used by the trapped crew of the ill-fated S-4. By the use of an electro-magnet, it will adhere to the hull of the undersea craft, and words spoken from within the hull or from the surface vessel, will be audible.

HOUSE MEMBER ASKS OUSTING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Declaring himself convinced he was not elected to the House from the Fourth Texas District, Representative Augustus McCloskey (Dem.), today asked House Elections Committee No. 3 to unseat him and declare Harry M. Wurzbach (Rep.), entitled to the seat.

At the same time McCloskey told the committee his conscience was clear of any fraud in the election, which had been charged by Wurzbach.

The startling climax of the bitterly fought contest will bring Wurzbach back into the House as the lone Republican member of Congress from Texas.

It also is expected to set in motion again an old quarrel between Wurzbach and R. B. Creager, Republican national committeeman, of Texas, for the right to dictate federal patronage in the state.

McCloskey's decision apparently was based upon a partial recount of ballots in Bexar County, Tex., of which San Antonio is the county seat. This recount gave Wurzbach a gain of 390 votes, overcoming McCloskey's majority of but 232 for the entire district.

Chairman Sears, Nebraska, of the elections committee, with Representative Kerr (Dem.), of North Carolina, was instructed by the committee at its executive meeting today, to draft a report on the contest for submission to the House.

funds" by distributing slot machines. Twenty per cent of the profits were to go to the fund, the witness said.

CITES SLOT MACHINES

"I took them around to political friends of the judge who were already selling liquor and told them the two Pittsburghers were going to help out with the slot machines," Welsh testified. "We put machines in numerous places throughout the county."

"Was any money turned over to the judge?" the witness was asked.

"O, yes, they did quite a large business," replied Welsh.

The defense objected to introduction of the slot machine angle, but the court ruled it was permissible.

In addition to Berkey, the defendants named in the indictment are: Ed Darr, county detective; Emmett Duckman, deputy detective; Victor Glessner, deputy constable; Harry S. Sellers, constable; John E. Custer, real estate owner; Zeigler, James McIntyre, Ed Sheeler, John Griffith, John Sherman, John Clark, John Gress, Peter Hanlon and William Ditman.

A sixteenth defendant, John C. Tucker, was granted a postponement when a physician's certificate was produced to show that he was sick.

IRENE ESCAPES ARIZONA PERIL

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Arizona authorities cannot extradite Irene Schroeder and Glen Dague if they escape the death sentence in their trial at New Castle, Pa., for the killing of Corp. Brady Paull, Attorney K. H. Powell, of defense counsel, said here today.

Powell asserted that the pair are not fugitives from justice, as they were surrendered to Pennsylvania by the Arizona authorities.

After they had been extradited to Pennsylvania Deputy Sheriff Lee Wright, of Arizona, died of wounds received in a gun battle with Mrs. Schroeder, Dague and Vernon Ackerman, who still is held in Phoenix. When Wright died Arizona officials said they would bring Dague and the woman back to face a murder charge if they escaped the death penalty in Pennsylvania.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—District Attorney John Powers, Lawrence County prosecutor in the case of Irene Schroeder and Glen Dague, today declined to comment on the assertion of Attorney K. H. Powell, of Youngstown, O., that Miss Schroeder and Dague could not be extradited to Arizona to answer for the killing of a deputy sheriff there.

"We will have nothing to say until we are in court," the prosecutor said. "The matter will be settled when the time for settlement comes."

They arrived in Norfolk by boat from Baltimore where they were married quietly in a Catholic rectory Saturday. They are planning a tour of the historic Virginia peninsula.

"This is Jeff's part of Virginia," Mrs. Chewning said, "and I want to see it all."

They already have selected a small apartment in Washington.

Their elopement was not prompted by fear of parental disapproval, she said. It was because of her aversion to "big" weddings.

"I think they're messy," she declared. "With a regular church wedding it is necessary that the engagement be announced several weeks ahead of time and all your friends, out of the kindness of their hearts, begin giving parties and dances and other things in your honor, with the result that by the time the date of the wedding has arrived you are utterly worn out."

Mrs. Chewning was unable to reach her father by telephone yesterday morning because of a poor connection, but later the Senator himself called, wished them happiness and urged them to return home.

Miss Couzens, who is 21, was one of this season's debutantes, but because of her preference for art study her parents gave no formal presentation party for her. Her art will go by the boards now, however.

"I know I'll be too busy keeping house and looking after my husband to have any time for art studies," she said.

BRIEF ROMANCE

She first met her husband at the President's Cup races on the Potomac last September. They saw each other next at the Junior League ball in Washington in December. On Friday night, January 17, they became engaged at "just a regular date." Plans to marry in March were discarded when newspapers began printing reports of the engagement, she said.

Mr. Chewning is 25 and the son of a Fredericksburg, Va., physician.

CHIEF JUSTICE TAFT RESIGNS DUE TO ILLS

On his return to Washington it was apparent to his friends and to his physician that he must have a period of complete relaxation and he was persuaded to go to Asheville for a rest. He seemed to recuperate there, but his sudden decision to return to Washington was a surprise to those who knew him that he had made an important decision.

LETTER KEPT SECRET

Taft's son was accompanied to the White House today by Attorney General Mitchell. He said his father had not suffered a turn for the worse but felt he could be as comfortable here as in Asheville, and desired to come home.

The White House said the letter of resignation, which cited ill health as the reason for retiring, "merely followed legal form" and would not be released to the press.

Taft's resignation removes from official life one of the outstanding figures of the present time.

As governor general of the Philippines, Secretary of War, President and chief justice, Taft has been a part of the American government for a quarter of a century. He was the twenty-seventh President, serving from 1909 to 1913. He was renominated in 1912, but defeated by Woodrow Wilson.

OTHER CHANGES LIKELY

The importance of his resignation lies in the probable reorganization of the court. At present always five and often six of its nine members are called conservative. Justice Stone has been aligned with Justices Holmes and Brandeis in many of their dissenting opinions and would be expected by those who are familiar with his trend of mind and views to be what is known in court circles as progressive.

There is a possibility that during the administration of President Hoover the court may be completely changed. Justices Holmes and Brandeis are both eligible for retirement, but both intend to remain upon the bench indefinitely. Justice Vandevanter is also eligible for retirement and has been remaining on the bench at the earnest solicitation of his colleagues.

Justice Sutherland has long been in ill health and while he has improved, it is expected that he will, unless his physical condition materially improves, be forced to retire in the near future.

It was recalled that when President Hoover was making up his cabinet he sought to have Justice Stone relinquish his place on the bench to again become attorney general, but the justice declined the appointment.

STONE CLOSE FRIEND

Subsequently, when the President was selecting his national commission on law enforcement and observance, he asked Justice Stone to become chairman of that body. The justice declined again to leave the bench and, despite his persistent efforts to persuade Mr. Stone, the President had to look elsewhere for the chairman of the commission.

Stone is one of the President's closest friends.

Taft is the second chief justice of the United States to resign, the only other instance was the resignation of John Jay, the first chief justice.

He is 73 years old and would not have been eligible for retirement on pay until July, 1931. Congress is expected to enact legislation, however, to compensate him after his retirement.

Mr. Taft was appointed to his place as chief justice on June 30, 1921. He has worked since that date diligently and steadily to bring the business of the court up to date. His labors have resulted in greatly reducing the congestion of litigation in the court and these efforts undoubtedly led to the impairment of his health and his subsequent decision to retire.

GIRL SINGS AS THIEVES WORK

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Without getting into the slightest discussion whatsoever concerning the singing voice of Miss Ann Kanter, it may be set forth without prejudice that she sang, and burglars ran out of the house.

Miss Kanter arrived with Miss Sonia Nahin at the latter's home early yesterday. Burglars were in the place, and the young women were frightened. It was under these trying circumstances that Miss Kanter sang, to the piano accompaniment of Miss Nahin. It was their idea to let the burglars know they were home, and at the same time keep them from knowing that the girls knew, or words to that effect.

The first vocal effort was something from Madame Butterfly. It was a bit too highbrow for the lowbrow burglars, apparently, for they kept right on packing away the family silverware.

Miss Kanter switched to a popular number the name of which will not be sent on request. It was not, however, "Bonny Boy." At the first few bars there was evidence of excitement from the direction of the burglars, and in a moment the back door slammed behind them. They took loot valued at $1,000.

NOTES REVEAL CHEMIST ALIVE

Several letters written on his portable typewriter and dated several weeks after he is supposed to have burned to death in his automobile on the banks of the Schuylkill River near Royersford, have been turned over to the police.

At the time the charred wreckage of his motor car was found it was believed that he had either perished in flames or had drowned in the river a few feet away.

Investigators from a Cleveland insurance company found the missives. In each instance they were accompanied by payments on his life insurance policy.

VETS' PENSION BILL OFFERED TO HOOVER

Beaver Falls Representative Would Speed Examination, Give Disabled Quick Aid

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(AP.) — Representatives J. Howard Swick, of Beaver Falls, laid before President Hoover today an outline of his World War pension bill, which has been indorsed by veterans' organizations in Pennsylvania and other states, and solicited White House support for its passage.

Swick, a physician, a major in the Medical Corps during the World War, proposes through his measure to place all disabled veterans of the World War on the same plane with veterans of the Spanish-American War when applying for government aid.

Under existing statutes, World War veterans' cases are administered by the Veterans' Bureau, which Swick contends frequently denies them relief or delays service, and at the same time involves excessive expenditure on the part of the government in providing disability relief.

COST HEAVY

World War veterans making application for compensation are obliged to report for physical examination at one of the Veterans' Bureau regional offices throughout the country, whereas, under the Swick measure, reputable physicians would be authorized to examine applicants for pensions at home and would be paid $5 for their services by the Pension Bureau.

Veterans' Bureau physicians, Swick declares, have testified that the average cost of examining a veteran in regional offices is $25.

COMMITTEE BACKING

The Republican members of the House Pension and the World War Veterans' Committees, of which Swick is a member, have informally indorsed the Swick bill.

The Swick measure fixes a minimum pension of $20 a month and has, as a protective feature, a provision which would grant children of deceased war veterans a pension of $6 a month until they are 16 years old, regardless of the number of times the widow may marry.

Warden John L. Hoffman said today that he would "breathe eisier" when trials are over.

The proceedings, he said, had "caused a tenseness at the prison."

PORTER SPEEDS 'DOPE' BILL

By KENNETH CLARK
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Heartened by nation-wide indorsements of his new bills striking at the dope evil, Representative Porter (Rep.), (Pa.) announced he would press for prompt action in congress. Canvass of the Senate and House indicates a widespread demand for the legislation.

One measure would create a separate narcotics bureau and the other will require all dispensers of habit-forming drugs to have a federal license.

During the last few days Porter has received numerous communications stressing necessity for such legislation to combat the menace enslaving thousands of victims. These indorsements have come from high federal and state officials, leading hospital authorities, physicians, dentists, druggists and enforcement officers.

"The expressions unanimously favoring the bill demonstrate beyond question that the American people are determined that the illicit traffic in these dangerous drugs must be stopped, and that the Federal government must arm itself properly to do it," declared Porter.

As it is in line with the administration's program transferring prohibition to the justice department, Porter is acting first on the independent narcotics bureau bill. Representative Hawley, (Ore.), chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, announced he would send the bill to the Treasury department today for a formal report. Treasury chiefs have indicated they have no objection to it.

D. A. R. BOOSTS ROLL 1,900

By JOHN KNOX.
Special Representative of the Hearst Newspapers

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The fifth conference of patriotic women on national defense has become history. Most of the delegates are on their way home or to winter sports on Southern waters.

It became known that the national board of management of the Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution held a meeting Saturday, the day after adjournment of the conference, at which some 1,900 new members were admitted to the D. A. R., making the total membership well over 170,000.

Officers of the D. A. R. regard this growth as one effect of the gainst attacks upon the organization during the past year. The qualifications for membership are direct descent from a soldier or one who gave material service to the cause of the Revolution.

Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president-general of the D. A. R., said:

"I am glad that growing interest in the purposes and program of the Daughters of the American Revolution has impelled so many American women to examine their family records so that they might qualify for membership with us. This is a time for all patriotic Americans to affiliate themselves with others so that we may present a united front to the many subversive influences which are working against the integrity and security of our country."

HUMBERT, BRIDE HOME IN TURIN

TURIN, Italy, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Crown Prince Humbert, of Italy, and his bride, former Princess Marie Jose, of Belgium, after a two weeks' honeymoon among the snows of Val D'Aosta, triumphantly entered Turin yesterday to make their permanent home here until the day that they are called to occupy the royal thrones of Italy.

The royal bridal couple received a tremendous welcome from Turin's population of more than half a million. Their progress in open carriages from the station to the Prince's palace was a continuous thunder of cheers. The streets were lined with great throngs of citizens held back by troops with drawn swords and fixed bayonets.

A crowd estimated at 150,000 packed the big square in front of the palace and would not go away until Humbert and Marie Jose had appeared several times on the central balcony to acknowledge the homage.

The Prince and the Princess spent an active honeymoon enjoying the winter sports among the mountains and valleys of Val D'Aosta.

HOOVER SLATED FOR YORKTOWN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—The United States-Yorktown sesquicentennial commission has laid before Congress its recommendations for a celebration of the One Hundred and Fiftieth Anniversary of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis, Oct. 19, 1781, at Yorktown, Virginia, when the colonies gained freedom from Great Britain.

The program proposed the attendance of President Hoover, his cabinet, former Presidents, members of the Supreme Court and members of the House and Senate, along with dignitaries from other countries.

"The President has signified his intention to attend, and it is believed," the report said, "that he will make an address on that occasion."

The commission added that Yorktown was "The birthplace of the Nation, and the 150th anniversary of the surrender should be celebrated in a manner befitting the importance of the event and the greatness of this country."

U. S. AIR GIANT PASSES TEST

PHILADELPHIA, [illegible]—(AP.)—Announcement was made here on behalf of the Ford Motor Company that the largest seaplane in the United States had successfully passed a series of tests at the Philadelphia Navy Yard. The plane, a Ford all-metal tri-motor, will be flown to Washington early this week to be demonstrated to officials of the Navy Department.

Primarily, the ship is a passenger transport plane, it was announced, which can carry 14 passengers, baggage and mail, and can be converted into a bomber or torpedo ship, a 20-passenger troop transport or a hospital air ambulance.

The new plane is known as the 5AT tri-motored seaplane. It is adapted for water landing and a takeoff by the substitution of two metal floats about 22 feet long for the wheels commonly used on the 5AT land plane. It is different from flying boats, which have been built to larger dimensions, in that it can be readily converted from water to land use.

Wage Cut Causes W. Va. Mine Strike

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Feb. 3.—Three hundred miners employed in the mines of the Franklin Coal Company and the Alexander Coal Company, subsidiaries of the Valley Camp Coal Company, controlled by the Paisley interests, of Cleveland, O., went out on strike this morning as a protest against a reduction in wages.

Pickets were placed on duty to prevent others from entering the mines, but no trouble was reported. The coal company posted notices several days ago announcing a cut of from 51 to 45 cents per hour for shovel loaders and from 44 to 40 cents per hour for machine loaders.

STABLE POUND, AIM OF PERU

LIMA, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—The government has sent to the Senate a bill proposing to stabilize the Peruvian pound at $4 in an effort to stop depreciation experienced in international exchange recently.

Officials said the $4 basis was selected because it was believed impossible to restore the Peruvian pound to its old par value of $4.86, which was fixed more than 30 years ago. Banking circles, it was said, favored stabilizing the pound at $3.75.

The bill also proposes to replace the pound, which equals ten soles, with the "gold sol," which will contain 1.601353 grammes of pure gold.

Girl Senior Gives Life in Vain to Save Mother

HASTINGS, Minn., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Miss Helen Swanson, 21, a senior at Hamline University at St. Paul, home for a week-end visit, yesterday gave her life in a fruitless attempt to aid her mother, Mrs. E. A. Swanson. Both the daughter and her mother died in a hospital from burns received Saturday.

Mrs. Swanson was cleaning clothes with gasoline on a porch at her home here. The fumes caused her to faint and she fell over the pan containing the gasoline, saturating her clothes. Helen found her mother and carried her into the house. As they passed the kitchen stove the heat set fire to Mrs. Swanson's clothes. Helen then rushed her mother outside where the flames were extinguished in the snow.

SERVANT KEEPS $395,000

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—A bitter six weeks' legal battle had closed today with the result that Mrs. Ella King, octaroon housekeeper for the late Charles H. Pulsifer, Chicago Board of Trade member, may retain $395,000 which she gained from her employer's estate both before and after his death.

Judge Robert Gentzel made the ruling after a contest waged by Mrs. Alice P. Crockett, Pulsifer's granddaughter. Mrs. Crockett maintained Mrs. King used undue influence in obtaining the gifts from the financier.

Saturday Judge Gentzel startled the courtroom with his announcement that evidence revealed Mrs. King was a Negress, although with a predominance of white blood.

We know from experience that crowds will be here . . . all day . . . eager to make most of this once-a-year opportunity. They'll come to pick up wedding gifts, bridge prizes, favors, gifts for Valentine's Day . . . and lovely things for their own homes.

A Unique Orange Juice Extractor, $1.25

The Knapp orange juice extractor gives you the pure juice and pulp of the orange, in which are the natural fruit sugars, vitamins and mineral salts which are so beneficial. It extracts 15% to 25% more juice from each orange—eliminating the seeds, and the fiber which gives the bitter taste. It is of aluminum, on which citrus acid has no effect, and is operated easily by hand. It is also used for lemons and limes. Demonstration now going on.

GRUNDY DODGES CAPITAL FETES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—On but two occasions since his appointment to be junior senator from Pennsylvania has Joseph R. Grundy engaged in the social life of the capital to any of its height. On January 18 he accompanied by his sister, he was a dinner guest of President and Mrs. Hoover, and on January 30 he attended the senatorial reception at the White House.

Senator Grundy has taken the position that as the appointed, as differentiated from an elected senator, he should devote his entire time to the legislative and departmental affairs affecting Pennsylvania. This week will find him engrossed with Senator Smoot (Rep.), of Utah, chairman of the Finance Committee, in striving to reinstate the countervailing clause in the tariff bill which, by the imposition of a duty of 50 cents a ton, he believes will save the New England market for Pennsylvania bituminous and anthracite products. He believes that if the repeal of this clause is allowed to remain, Pennsylvania's annual coal production stands in danger of slumping 20,000,000 tons annually. Senator Grundy also plans to devote much time this week to the waterway development program affecting Western Pennsylvania.

Thaw Faces New $3,000 Film Suit

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—No one having sued Harry K. Thaw for several weeks, John R. Lopez and Arthur B. Reeve came to the front today and announced they will start action this week against the Pittsburgh millionaire seeking payment of $3,000 alleged to be due for film stories. They charge Thaw hired them to write the stories for Anita Rivers and Susan Hughes, whom Thaw planned to star on the screen.

Prince of Wales Just Tourist To Africans

MAHALAPYE STATION, Bechuanaland, Africa, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales, whose face was thought to be known all over the world, was just another tourist to the South African natives at this station.

The Prince, traveling northward to resume his interrupted hunting trip in Uganda, strolled with friends along the platform, chatting. He was recognized by all the white people, but the shouting native vendors merely treated him as someone who might purchase skins, necklaces and carvings.

The Prince has wholly recovered from the cold he caught at Johannesburg.

BLAST QUIZ ON AT N. BRADDOCK

Coroner W. J. McGregor, assisted by experts of the United States Bureau of Mines, today began an investigation of the North Braddock explosion which took the lives of a family of four Saturday.

Funeral services for the victims, Mr. and Mrs. James Wolford and their two small children, of 1011 Fourth street, were to be held today at Blairsville, their former home.

A second investigation of the blast which wrecked the home was in charge of Police Chief H. G. Harker, of North Braddock. He said he believed the explosion was caused by leaking gas.

SUNDAY MOVIES CONTESTED

WHEELING, W. Va., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Three hundred churchmen representing 29 of the 35 Protestant churches of Wheeling yesterday held a meeting at which plans were made to combat Sunday movies in the city.

Petitions were circulated at church services and spokesmen said thousands of persons affixed their signatures in opposition to the opening of theaters on the Sabbath. The next step, it was said, would be the framing of an ordinance prohibiting Sunday performances, to be submitted to council for passage at the same time the petitions are presented on February 18. In the meantime another mass meeting is planned.

Several Wheeling movie houses started to operate on Sunday about two months ago. Operators and employes were arrested on the first few Sundays on charges of violating a state "blue" law forbidding any one from doing unnecessary labor on the Sabbath. The cases will come up at the February term of court.

ICE JAM BREAKS, SCORES FLEE

VANCOUVER, Wash., Feb. 3 (AP.)—House boats, fishing launches and pleasure craft were wrecked when an ice jam loosened by thawing weather in the upper reaches of the Columbia River, swept a pathway to the sea crushing everything before it.

Twelve families fled to safety.

Federal rivermen estimated the damage to private owners of river dwellings and moored craft at $10,000. The city of Vancouver said about $1,000 would be required to repair broken pilings and the municipal wharves.

With a resounding crash the jam, in which the river steamer N. R. ing loaded with $30,000 worth of paper from Camas, Wash., mills had been ice-locked more than two weeks, moved in on the houseboat dwellers. The N. R. Lang escaped destruction.

Reports from Portland indicated the ice jam spread to larger proportions as it moved down the river and other Columbia River towns reported its passing. No other damage was done as the jam swept on towards the sea.

WOMAN, RECTOR AVERT PANIC

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 — (AP.) — Three hundred persons, most of them women and children, were panic-stricken yesterday when a bomb exploded in the rear of a motion picture theater at Hinsdale, a suburb. Mrs. George W. Krueger, wife of the theater manager, helped calm the stampeding patrons by a talk from the stage and the Rev. Richard J. Lee, Episcopal pastor, rushed to the scene when he heard the blast and reassured the crowd which was trying to fight its way from the front door. Damage was slight.

Mrs. Krueger said she blamed the bombing on the Motion Picture Operators' Union which she said, had threatened her husband for not employing two operators at $208 a week. He runs the projector himself, she said, and recalled that he was shot in the leg by one of three men as he was leaving a film exchange.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Feb. 3 — (AP.)—L. B. Ward, assistant cashier of the Texas National Bank of Fort Worth which closed its doors Friday upon recommendation of the Fort Worth Clearing House Association, shot and killed himself yesterday.

He left a note in which he ascribed loss of health and loss of his position as reasons for the act.

UNVEIL TABLET TO ASSASSIN

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, Feb. 3 (AP.) — A dispatch from Sarajevo, where the Austrian Archduke Franz Ferdinand was assassinated in 1914, just before the outbreak of the world war, said that a marble memorial slab was unveiled there yesterday in honor of Gavrio Prinzip, the archduke's assassin.

The slab was placed over the entrance to Prinzip's home after a memorial service in the church nearby. When the unveiling ceremony was over the mourners, who included Prinzip's relatives, friends and admirers, observed two minutes silence in memory of the Serbians who died in the cause for which Prinzip died.

Prinzip was found guilty of murder at Sarajevo in October, 1914, and was sentenced by the Austrians to 20 years imprisonment. He died in a fortress near Prague in May, 1918, where he was condemned to solitary confinement in a darkened cell.

During the war the Austrians erected a memorial to the assassinated archduke and archduchess at the spot where Prinzip fired the shots, but the Serbians destroyed it when Sarajevo became a part of Jugoslavia, and set up a memorial tablet to Prinzip.

CAPITAL BODY BIDS ENVOYS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 — (AP.) — An innovation in programs of the Pennsylvania Society of Washington is planned by Representative Esterly, of Reading, president of the society.

These countries supplied the immigrants which settled Pennsylvania prior to the Revolutionary War. The meeting will be known as "State Origins Night," and the diplomats will deliver brief addresses on the European political influence prevailing at the time of migration.

Hangs by Fingers To Fiery Ledge Until Rescued

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 — (AP.) — A man hanging from a third story window ledge was rescued by firemen when flames partially destroyed a North Side apartment hotel and forced more than a hundred thinly clad residents into the snow-covered streets.

Peter Johnson, 40, trapped in his room by the fire, had clambered out a window and hung suspended from the sill until the flames began licking his fingers. He was preparing to make the three-story drop when firemen arrived and effected his rescue with a suspension ladder.

Fireman George Carlson suffered a dislocated shoulder when he fell through the roof of the burning structure.

Fifty-two apartments were damaged and many of the occupants lost their entire wardrobes.

Falls 1,800 Feet, Doctor Treats Own Wounds

COTTONWOOD, Idaho, Feb. 3. (AP.)—Hurled from an automobile as it tumbled 1,800 feet down a mountainside, Dr. G. A. Woodcock landed in a snow bank, seriously injured. He opened his medicine chest and injected drugs for three hours to relieve the pain before rescuers found him. It became known here.

The Cottonwood physician went to visit a patient Saturday and his car ran off the White Bird grade.

With a dislocated shoulder, a knee believed broken and several deep gashes, Woodcock eased his suffering as he lay in the snow and waited.

In three hours the Weser-Grangeville stage and a truck arrived.

UP FOR ARSON SECOND TIME

Sam Benjamin was placed on trial a second time in Criminal Court today charged with arson in connection with an explosion and fire which damaged his butcher shop and home at 5170 Butler street March 27, 1929, killing an unidentified man.

A juror became ill when Benjamin was being tried last June and the case was continued. A hitherto missing witness has been found, commonwealth counsel announced and he will take the witness stand in support of charges that excessive gasoline were seen being taken to the place the day before the explosion.

Youth Invades Boat To Sleep, Held Here

John Stranik, 17, of 424 East Thirteenth street, New York, came here looking for a job, he told Magistrate T. D. Jones in Morals Court today. Weary and without funds, he strolled aboard the steamer Greater Pittsburgh moored at Wood street wharf and entered a stateroom last night. He was sound asleep when police summoned by employes of the boat, arrived. He was held for investigation.

NAVY RUNAWAY OUSTER O. K'D

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—President Hoover has confirmed a sentence of dismissal from the Navy for Lieut. Harold W. Northcutt, who was charged with desertion and other offenses.

The young lieutenant, who stood third in his class at Annapolis, disappeared from the Norfolk Navy Yard on October 22.

At first it was thought he had met with foul play. His abandoned automobile was found in Richmond.

Two weeks later Northcutt was discovered in Vancouver, B. C., in company with a woman who was said to be a trained nurse. The naval officer agreed to return to the United States and surrendered to the commandant of the Puget Sound Navy Yard.

He refused, however, to make any statement or to explain in any way his actions.

Unshapely Legs Real Reason for Long Skirts

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—(INS)—The reason for the longer skirts—in short—is concealment of unsightly women's legs, according to the Chicago women's apparel manufacturers who opened their fashion show here today.

The manufacturers maintain that the era of short skirts revealed that seven out of ten women had unshapely legs.

Prize Winner

Hazel May suffered from constipation," says Mrs. M. Hopkins, 1860 Buckius Lane, Philadelphia. "She was sallow and bilious, didn't have any appetite, couldn't digest her food.

"California Fig Syrup has changed all that. It regulated her bowels quickly, improved her appetite and digestion. She has improved right along until friends say she's a regular prize-winner for health."

Mothers by thousands praise California Fig Syrup. Physicians endorse it. Its rich, fruity flavor appeals to children; its pure vegetable goodness is safe for any child. The prompt relief it brings bilious headaches, constipated children lasts, because it helps tone and strengthen bowels and stomach. Next time bad breath, coated tongue or feverishness warn of constipation, try it with your child and see how it helps.

When buying, look for the name "California." That means the genuine, famous for 50 years.

Going Under Ether She Spies Fire In Hospital

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(AP)—A patient about to submit to an anesthetic in a Brooklyn hospital yesterday detected a fire which, but for her watchful eye, might have assumed serious proportions.

The patient, Miss Frances Lomandino, of Brooklyn, was lying on an operating table when she saw a blaze in an adjoining wing. She told the operating surgeon and the fire, which started in a wastebasket, was quickly extinguished. Damage was estimated at $2,000.

Herbert Heyner, a most pleasing British baritone, gave a refreshing song recital last night in the auditorium of the Y. M. and W. H. A. before the frankest audience in this city, and made a tremendous sucess.

J. Fred Lissfelt

Heyner so completely makes one lose the sense of voice and its technique, that after a few songs one realizes only the steady flow of a gentle music, and cares not how it is made. Any limitation of the voice is most adequately covered by a style that has in its depths the jollity of English folksong and the sincerest feeling for good taste.

Heyner is both dramatic and lyric; he is at home in the trying Wolf songs, in Schubert, in Russian and French music as well as in the Elizabethan songs.

Especially notable, from a historical standpoint, were the songs from the English lutenists, and here the singer gave us the opportunity of hearing the beauty of our English language in settings that might still be a pattern for present day composers. He gave as encore that marvelous bit of satire, Moussorgsky's "The Flea," and "The Road to Mandalay" in a strange setting.

Those who wish to know the art of accompanying should have heard Earl Mitchell last night. His playing overstepped his usual excellence, and Heyner seemed most grateful.

WINTER DRIVING GIVES HIM BAD COUGH

MR. JAMES GILBERT

REM delivered prompt relief

Mr. James Gilbert of 70 Hollister St., Rochester, N. Y., has found that driving a truck through the winter is a mighty cold job. Not long ago he caught a cold that way and developed a bad cough that nothing seemed to relieve. So he dropped in at De Carlos' Drug Store, North St. and Skuse Park, and asked him what cough medicine he could recommend. "Try REM" said Mr. De Carlos, and Mr. Gilbert reports it proved good advice. "REM relieved my cough very quickly" he says, "I'm glad De Carlos told me about it." Mr. Gilbert's bottle of REM is just one of the more than ten million that have been sold under a "money back" guarantee. It's significant that not one customer in a thousand ever wanted it back.

REM has "made good" in over 10 million cases. Follow the 10 million!

DRYS DECLINE SABIN OFFER

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—The challenge of Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, chairman of the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform, to produce the names and addresses and authoritative proof of 1,000 persons in New York state who drank to excess prior to the passage of the prohibition law and who now have stopped drinking as a result of that law, will not be accepted.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union of New York State announced today that the words "to excess" and "authoritative proof" made acceptance of the challenge impossible, "inasmuch as it would involve snooping into the extent of drinking habits of persons who are now law-abiding."

HOTEL BOMBED IN KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 3.—(INS.)—The poor aim of racketeers probably saved the lives of many persons here today when a bomb was tossed into the show window of a drug store in the lobby of a fashionable southside hotel, the Commodore.

The missle struck a corner of the window casing and fell to the ground, tearing a large hole in the pavement as it exploded. Windows in the hotel were broken on the tenth floor.

Panic-stricken by the terrific detonation, the 125 occupants of the hotel fled, some in night clothing.

FILIPINOS SAD OVER RIOTING

MANILA, P. I., Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Sullen gloom lingered here today as the aftermath of "National Humiliation Day" yesterday, in which thousands of Filipinos assembled in protest against the recent anti-Filipino rioting at Watsonville, Cal.

Services were held for Manuel Taberas, Filipino workman slain in the disorders.

Speeches in Spanish and English moved the listeners.

ILEANA'S COUNT THRILLS GIRLS

BUCHAREST, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—This is about a blushing bridegroom-to-be.

Princess Ileana visited the Rumanian School of Sculpture where she once studied. Her fiance, the Count of Hochberg, accompanied her. The girls were thrilled by his blond curly locks and by his embarrassment when Ileana pointed to him and said:

"I have chosen well, girls, have I not?"

Emigrants From U.S. Into Canada Gaining

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Canada received 26,165 immigrants from the United States during the last nine months of 1929, an increase of 1,292 over the same period of the previous year.

Great Britain furnished the greatest number of immigrants in the period covered, with 58,846. There were 25,018 from Northwestern Europe and 31,355 representing 33 other nationalities.

Aunt Knew What to Do

"My daughter Gertrude was very much rundown. She was all broken out with pimples and eruptions on her hands and legs. I tried everything for her but nothing did her much good. She was only 16 years old and was working at tailoring. Her aunt Sophia advised us to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she has gained in every way. Her skin and color are good, her nerves are better, she has a good appetite now and seems well and strong. We think the Vegetable Compound is the best medicine for girls to take and we will answer letters asking about it."—Mrs. Mary Earle, 817 S. Montford Ave., Baltimore, Maryland.

DAILY TRUE STORY

The Funniest Idea

"I'VE got the funniest idea," cried Tessa Ormand.

"Oh, be your temperature, Katie Hawkins—it's nothing of the sort."

Well, who is he, Tessa? If it's funny, tell me. I want to laugh and I want to know who this victim will be."

"That's the funny part of it—there's no 'he' in it at all."

Katie stared at her in amazement.

"Not interested," she said.

"You will be—we'll get a big laugh at least once a week out of it."

"A laugh a week is worth a lot, especially when a girl has to work day in and day out at Ungleton's," Katie complained.

Ungleton's is where they make so many million cakes of soap, and so many million tubes of tooth paste and so many millions of bottles of perfumes every year according to the advertising matter.

"Here's the idea," said Tessa. "I thought of it this afternoon when I was tending the pinkies." The "pinkie" was the factory name for a very special brand of complexion soap supposed to contain qualities that would put a babe's complexion on a st'rte gaigyle if you believed what was printed about it.

Tessa giggled.

"Hey, tell me, let me in on the laugh," Katie said as she pushed back her plate.

Cooked Own Meals

"Well, here's the idea. I'll get a little photograph of some swell lookin' boy, perhaps that little one in Merle Baker."

"But he's married!" Katie protested.

"That doesn't matter. Listen. I'll write a phony name on the back of it and this apartment address, and I'll just write I am awfully lonesome, please write to me, and then—"

Tessa paused to laugh.

"Well, spring the funny part," Katie said.

"Don't you see? Some girl will get the picture and the message and—"

"But how?"

"I'll slip it into a cake of the pinkie, under the wrapper. Some girl will get it—if we don't get any letters we'll keep trying until we do. Then soon as some girl writes we'll make up nice love letters to her, see?"

Katie began to see. She grinned and nodded.

"Honest, Tessa, that is a funny idea," Katie agreed.

They began to poke around to find a small photograph suitable for their funny idea—it had to be a good-looking young man.

"How about this one," cried Tessa, digging one out of the bottom of a handkerchief box and showing it.

"That's Thad Ormand, a cousin of mine—he's as much as 30 now, and married."

"Swell! Now be careful and don't write like a girl," Katie warned.

"Let's see, what will I call him?"

"Lionel is a swell name," Katie suggested.

"Isn't it! I'll call him Lionel Haven—pretty swell, what?"

"Unknown girlie. I'm awfully lonesome. Write to me, please. Lionel Haven, Apt. 6-D."

His Reply

The next day Tessa picked up one of the "pinkie" cakes as if to examine it, as they had to do if faulty wrapping occurred. She nudged Katie, who watched her deftly open one end of the packing and tuck the photograph inside.

They discussed it that night.

"Or it might go to Frisco or any other place. Don't worry, just wait," Katie advised.

Waiting was longer than they expected, seven full weeks, to be exact.

Then they found a letter at their door when they got home.

"Whoopee!" yelled Katie, who had picked it up. "Here it is!"

And there it was, all right, in a pale blue envelope, nicely scented, addressed to Mr. Lionel Haven.

She read:

Boston, Mass., June 2, '29.

"Dear Mr. Haven: I found your picture in a cake of soap. Sorry you are lonesome. So am I. Pauline Shelton."

"Huh. Pauline isn't very gushy," Katie said, in disappointment.

"We'll fix that," Tessa assured her.

After dinner the two of them concocted this one:

"Dear Pauline—Thanks so much for dropping me a line. Sorry you are lonesome, too. It's tough to be lonesome. I work all day in an architect's office, but I don't care much for the girls I meet. Please send me your picture and write about you, all."

That letter brought a picture of Pauline. Even Katie admitted that she was sure a "looker."

Tessa's next letter was clever. She wrote that she didn't see why so beautiful a girl as Pauline wasn't surrounded by boy friends and also: "If I were in Boston I'd be hanging 'round you all the time you are so beautiful."

That started the love letters going. Pauline sent on a big photograph of herself then. Tessa had to make "Lionel" write that he had no other photographs but would have some taken later.

Pauline wrote:

"No young man ever interested me so much as you do."

Tessa had been right—it was certainly "the funniest idea." She and Kate used to yell with laughter when they got Pauline's letters and have another spell of laughing when they made up "Lionel's" epistles which were becoming more and more passionate right along.

"Good gosh," Tessa said, "if this Pauline dame ever gets wise she'd half kill us!"

But it had gone too far to be stopped.

And the letters were better than a comedy.

Tessa had a swell idea. She ran over to Newark to see her cousin Thad Ormand one Sunday with Kitty, and before she left she had smuggled away a good cabinet photograph of him. This she sent to Pauline.

Another Letter

Pauline's next letter was a corker.

"I can see by your picture that you are just a big, honest, handsome adorable man and I know I am fortunate to have become acquainted with you."

"It won't be long now!" howled Katie.

"We'll have to make our Lionel propose pretty soon."

"And then what, Tessa?"

"Send her a wire that he was called to China or something, and we'll send out another picture and keep this up," Tessa declared.

One night they saw a strange girl coming down the hall.

"My good gosh," whispered Katie, "she looks like the picture of Pauline!"

Tessa grabbed Katie's arm and walked her up the next flight of their walk-up building. They sneaked down the back way. The girl had gone.

And this was the night they were to send her a letter.

"I thought I saw you on the street today but knew it couldn't be you or you would have notified me. I am worried because the firm may send me to China on some factory plans."

"There, that's not so bad, we are getting ready to get out of this mess," Tessa said.

Pauline replied promptly enough.

"Of course, I wouldn't come down there without seeing you. I would love to travel with you."

"Zowie! If that isn't egging him on—tell me!" cried Katie.

Then one night a pleasant appearing young man called and asked for Miss Ormand.

"Right here, and I'm not buying anything in installments," said Tessa.

He shook his head and said, "I am a private detective. Your cousin's wife sent me here. Her husband is receiving love letters from a Boston girl—they are sent here. I suppose he comes over for them or you sneak them to him."

"But—but I don't understand——"

"This Boston girl has Mr. Ormand's pictures. He uses another name, but she has told all about him—we think they are going to sneak to China. Can't you break this up?"

"Why—why—you bet I can, mean. I'll see Josie right away—I'll fix it," and Tessa was crying. Josie was her cousin Thad's wife.

"When will you see her?"

"Day after tomorrow—Sunday."

Tessa Confesses

Katie began to howl with laughter as soon as the detective left but Tessa was frantic. She said it served her right for playing such a trick and she'd like to wring that silly Pauline Shelton's neck.

Josie took Tessa up stairs to the bedroom. Poor Tessa confessed everything, about using Thad's picture, and she showed her a lot of Pauline's letters.

"Honest, I don't think Thad knows a thing about it. I don't think he ever saw that fool Pauline. It was all my fault but Thad is on the level—can't you understand!" Tessa cried.

Josie began to laugh.

So did someone else in the little den adjoining. It sounded like two men doing the laughing. Josie shoved Tessa through the door to the little den. There sat her cousin Thad and the "detective."

"Let me introduce you to my old buddy, Paul Shelton of Boston," said Cousin Thad. Then he disappeared.

"Paul—Paul—Oh, lordy—don't tell me there was never any Pauline?"

He shook his head.

"Of course I recognized Thad when you sent the pictures. I came down to see him about it. We decided that it was some t ick of yours. I wouldn't have answered the thing if it hadn't been Thad's picture. I knew he was married and I guessed someone was playing a joke on him."

"Oh, lordy—what do you think of me—what can you think of me!" Tessa cried.

"I think we ought to dri e out so ne place for dinner and talk it over," Paul Shelton suggested.

It was past midnight when Paul took Tessa home.

"That funny idea wasn't so funny, was it," said Katie, who had been awakened. "I'd hate to be in your shoes today."

"It wasn't a bad idea—it sure has got me one swell steady boy friend," Tessa answered.

Mrs. Shelton she that was Tessa Ormand, is living in Boston now.

A Continuation of Love's Embers

George's Heroic Gesture Wins Harry's Admiration

PRINCE GEORGES heeded Harry Underwood's command to "slam on the brakes" only so long as the elder man was talking over the telephone. When the receiver clicked into the socket he took an impetuous step toward Mr. Underwood.

"You must let me do as these men outline," he said passionately. "It is my right. I did not mind being a puppet pulled by a string when it was only my own life at stake. But these threats to the young women are——

I will not let any consideration for me stand in the way of protecting them. I demand that I be allowed to go up to that room as the note says. But of course, I never shall consent to any terms the cattle may submit. If I die—there probably is no 'if'—at least I shall not die a poltroon!"

It was boyishly melodramatic but there was a tense sincerity in it which banished even the wraith of a smile from any of us. Mr. Underwood made no attempt to interrupt him but when Prince Georges finished and stood "like a lance in rest" he walked over and laid a kindly hand on the young Prince's shoulder.

"Spoken as befits a king," he said, and there was no shade of irony in his voice. "But, lad, you're on the wrong track. There'll be no risk tomorrow night except for yourself. You'll have to be the bait, you know. Don't you realize that sooner than risk the girls I'd do the obvious thing—throw a cordon of police around the hotel, have the man and the woman opposite arrested upon some trumped-up charge and see that you and Princess Olina went back to your home upon the next steamer with your identities known to everybody and under the protection of your respective countries. We haven't a scintilla of real evidence against any person—this note may have come from anywhere, but at least we'd delay their game a little. But you know better than I how desperate they are. If they got free as they undoubtedly would under our great judicial system, they would hound you——"

"If I do not do as they demand," Prince Georges said tonelessly, "sooner or later they will get the girls."

"Not if we get these birds tomorrow night as I'm planning to do," Mr. Underwood replied, patiently but firmly. "What do you suppose I've planned all this third-reel cinema stuff for? It's the only way I saw to get those owls where we wanted them. I don't mind telling you I've been looking for something like this for quite a spell. And now that it's here, you want to spoil the whole thing. No, no, boy. You leave this thing to me, and I'll guarantee you can go back to your country and haul that arch-fiend cousin of yours to execution dock or anywhere else your little heart desires. You can spout, 'I have thee on the hip,' and have it make sense. Look here!" his voice dropped an octave into a rumbling bass. "I've been after this Kenellos thing for five years. I'm getting all the threads into my hands for a final round-up of those lads, and if you think anybody, even a king on his throne, or near it, is going to interfere with me you have another think coming, boy."

Lillian and I exchanged quick glances of surprise. We had noticed the intense interest her husband was taking in the "tiger trap" he had planned, but we had not dreamed that rescuing Prince Georges was only the climax of one of the long secret service missions in which he had been so successful.

Prince Georges stiffened slightly, but Mr. Underwood went on, unheeding or ignoring. I could not tell which.

"That organization is like any other crawling thing—when its backbone is broken you can stamp it out. That's why I'm counting on tomorrow night's haul. It's all very well," he struck the paper in his hand contemptuously, "for them to talk about caring nothing for their lives. That's the usual poppycock. They're just as quick as anybody else to save their bacon when they're up against the real thing. And they'll be up against it, make no mistake as to that. I respect your courage, lad, but I can't let you interfere with my plans. I'll prevent you by force if necessary—lock you up and tell the hotel management you've developed smallpox or rabies."

He grinned at the young Prince, but there was a finality about his words which evidently was convincing. The struggle between the outraged regal pride of Georges and his common sense was so palpable that Lillian and I turned away our eyes, unwilling to embarrass him by a glance. But at last sanity prevailed, and he spoke low and tensely.

"I am in your hands, sir. But please do not let anyone else risk anything for me."

"You're the one who'll have the greatest risk, if any," Mr. Underwood assured him. "Now, we'll skip the rest of the stuff about the girls and get down to the directions."

He took up the letter again and read slowly.

"The Prince is to be in his room alone at 4 o'clock in the morning. He will admit a man who knocks four short raps, stop, then two—but before he opens the door he is to knock three short raps, stop, then three more. That will signify that he agrees to go away quietly, and thus there will be no unpleasantness. If you agree to have the Prince meet us thus the woman who picked up the message must come to the roof at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning, stand for five minutes at the parapet directly in front of the bench where the arrow was dropped. She is to clutch her hat with one hand as if in fear of it blowing off. She is to change hands at the end of every minute. There is a clock which she can see from that position. She is to keep her face away from the hotel and must not look around until the five minutes have elapsed. No harm will come to her."

"That's all right," Dicky said truculently, "but she isn't going alone."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, February 4

ALTHOUGH employment and some business affairs relating to the feminine or domestic side of life may meet with progress on this day, yet there are portents of trickery and duplicity, which may undermine the best endeavors unless extreme wisdom and caution be exercised. All writings should be most carefully signed and every loophole for misrepresentation be circumvented.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of advancement or preferment if in the employment of others, or if engaged in matters pertaining to the domestic or feminine side of life. But all matters are in peril from fraud, treachery or misrepresentation unless sagacity be exercised, especially in making contracts or signing papers.

A child born on this day should be talented and clever and should attain good position and be popular in employment, but it may lean toward subtle or underhand rather than straightforward methods.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Form Right Habits in Youth

"CHARACTER is simply habit long continued," said Plutarch, that wise philosopher of the ancient Greeks. There is no doubt but he was right. Our daily habits have much to do in moulding character.

DR. COPELAND

You cannot go far in this world without a good character. To this end it is essential that we form good habits in our earliest youth. Every parent is responsible for the habits acquired by the child. It may take vigilance, but it is far better to see that your child forms good habits than to permit bad habits which will curse his future.

There are plenty of habits formed in youth that are a menace to future good health. Chief of these are the habits of eating. Some persons have digestive organs which seem capable of handling almost anything that falls short of rocks and hardware. They appear to be able to eat anything and suffer no ill effects.

I consider it unwise to treat any stomach, no matter how willing it may be, to such hardships. Children are apt to bolt their food, to be notional about what they eat, and to refuse to eat what is good for them. If you are guardian to such a child, you must be firm in helping him to form right habits of eating.

It is important to prevent a child from forming a habit of eating too much sugar, or too much salt, or too much meat, or too much of anything. He must have a balanced diet, and the more variety of food he takes the better. Eternal vigilance must be yours in this habit-forming stage of his career.

We all discover, some time, that some one thing is bad for us. Perhaps we have formed a great liking for pork, pastry, candy, or one of a hundred different things. We may find that something does not agree with us, something perhaps that has stood us in good stead for years past. Now is the time that we can give evidence of real character by changing our eating habits. We find that we feel better, and are better, by reducing the consumption of whatever has been determined upon as destructive of our welfare.

There can be no doubt that certain foodstuffs are poisonous to some people. There is no use trying to overcome the effects. You just have to eliminate all or part of such a food. Tobacco and alcohol are in the same category. If one of them does you harm and produces ill effects in your body and brain, you just cannot afford to indulge in it.

Form good sleeping habits. Most people need eight hours of good sleep every night in the week, "day in and day out." Some get along on five, but the chances are that the person who does not get enough sleep will lessen his body resistance to disease. It is something to think about.

Is it your good habit to take a vigorous walk each day, if you are not exercising your body some other way? That is also most essential to your health.

LOVEJOY

:: By BEATRICE BURTON

wrapped in a blue-gray cape. Her hair was plastered against her head by the rain when she came bursting into Hilda's warm, spotless kitchen.

She had two or three bundles wrapped in newspaper. She dumped them down upon the kitchen table and pushed Lovejoy into the dining room.

"How soon is Hilda going out?" she asked in an excited whisper.

Thursday was Hilda's half-holiday—the day when she went to the Scandinavian Club to play basketball, have supper and meet her friends from the "Old Country."

"She's not going out at all today," Lovejoy answered. "She told me this morning that she wouldn't think of leaving the house on a day like this. She's going to lie down in her room and rest, though."

Aline laughed. She had a light, sweet laugh, full of little rippling sounds.

"Well, she'll have to change her mind, honey," she said. "You'll have to send her to the store or do something like that with her for an hour or so. Sam Oliver, an old beau of mine, is in town and he's coming here to pick me up and take me driving. I brought over some ginger-ale and things so that I could give him a drink when he came."

Lovejoy stared at her helplessly. How on earth could she get Hilda out of the house on a day like this? The rain was beating against the walls of the house like a shower of birdshot, and the gutters were running rivers. And Hilda could be as immovable as a block of stone or a mule when she wanted to be.

"I couldn't ask Sam to my house," Aline explained, "because Al had a sore throat when he went downtown this morning and it would be just like him to come home early and find Sam there."

Lovejoy went into the kitchen.

"Hilda," she said, "will you do something for me? Will you go down to the new house and measure all the windows in it? I'm going downtown for curtain materials tomorrow."

Hilda shrugged her square shoulders.

"Listen—why can't I go tomorrow morning early?" she asked slowly. "If I go out today I like to go to Scandinavian Club. But it's so bad day. See, I think I'm going to lie down and rest. I measure the windows tomorrow morning—but not today. Too bad weather." She shook her flaxen head firmly.

Her blue eyes slewed around from Lovejoy's face to the three bottle-shaped packages on the table. She seemed to know what was in them and why Aline had brought them there.

A look that clearly said I know you want to get rid of me, but you're not going to flashed in and out of her face.

She picked up the alarm clock from the drain-board and went heavily into her bedroom, shutting the door behind her.

"I'd lock her in if I were you!" Aline cried furiously. "Why, Lovejoy, you ought to turn her out of the house!—Think of her refusing to do something you asked her to do! She just wants to stay here and spy on us! I wouldn't trust her. I'd get rid of her—"

Her angry torrent of words was cut off by the sudden ringing of the door bell.

"That's Sam!" she whispered and flew to let him into the house.

Left alone, Lovejoy went softly into the baby's room to see if he was covered up for his afternoon nap. As she turned to go out, she heard the hinges of Hilda's door squeak. It was slowly closing!

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Gifts for the Bride

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. A young couple, both close friends of mine, are to be married next month, and of course I expect to present them with appreciative (I hope) gifts. Now is it correct to buy a gift for each of my friends, or should I select something suitable and useful for both?

2. When is this gift, or gifts, presented?

3. Will you please give me some suggestion as to suitable gifts? PUZZLED.

THE wedding gift is a gift for the new home, and is always sent to the bride.

2. The gift is sent about two weeks, or a week, before the wedding. The point is that, if we are thoughtful, we plan to send our gift so that we allow time for the busy bride-to-be to write the thank you note that she will write in appreciation of our gifts.

3. Practically anything for the home is a suitable wedding gift. Today's gifts are often something in glass or silver or china for the table. Or a lovely set of table cloth and napkins, or tea cloth and napkins, is a charming gift. Or a smoking accessory, or an accessory for the desk, or a handsome leather portfolio for papers or photographs.

Introduction Forms

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Please state the correct form to use when introducing one's sister or near relative to a gentleman.—B. B.

YOU should introduce the gentleman to your sister, not your sister to the gentleman: "Mary, may I present Mr. Wellington?" or "Mary, may I introduce Doctor Bryan?" or "Doctor Bryan, this is my sister, Mary." Or, more informally, "Mary, Mr. Wellington."

Dulcy Insists on Helping Unwilling Fiance to Conduct Business

CHAPTER I.

A KISS AND A QUARREL

AS the car sped through the sun-drenched countryside, Dulcy, miraculously, stopped talking. Gordon glanced at her quickly, to see if she had fainted. But no, there she sat, looking more beautiful than ever; he appreciated her beauty particularly because she wasn't saying anything. When she talked, he was so worried over what she might say next that she might as well have been cross-eyed or had a hair lip. He couldn't see her then.

That golden hair, those blue eyes, that exquisite face—in a daze he came to a sudden stop at the side of the road, drew her quickly to him, and kissed her.

"Darling, I love you," he murmured tenderly. "I—"

"And I love you," she told him, in her sweet, confiding little voice. "Why, just yesterday—"

Gordon shuddered at that "yesterday." For yesterday Dulcy had fixed something for him, as was her habit. Dulcy had been waiting in his office for him, and his broker had phoned, to say that more margin would be needed immediately. Dulcy just hadn't told Gordon, when he came in, because they were going to have luncheon together, and he was always so cross after he'd talked with his broker.

"Yesterday I was thinking that I'm really 'that way' about you," she went on.

Become Engaged

"Then—are we engaged?" he demanded, almost incredulously.

"Uh-huh," she agreed, and snuggled close, with her head on his shoulder.

Gordon kissed her again, started the car, stopped it to kiss her once more, and then, having started it, stopped it, beside a man who was gazing at a punctured tire.

"We're engaged!" he announced jubilantly to the stranger.

"Hope you get married!" the stranger shouted after them, vindictively.

"I really believe he thought we stopped to help him," Dulcy murmured. "Why don't you go back and tell him that of course we'll get married? Let's do it right away!"

"As soon as my business gets straightened out," he promised her.

"But two can live as cheaply as one," she assured him, as if she had invented the saying.

As she spoke, the rose clouds of romance in which Gordon was soaring parted, revealing a world that made much of dollars and cents—particularly dollars.

He wouldn't let her worry about things like that, though. Now that he had won Dulcy he would conquer the world, or at least that part of it occupied by the wholesale jewerly business.

"Just think," he told her earnestly. "If I can put this Forbes deal through, we can be married at once."

"Won't that be wonderful?" Dulcy cooed.

Promises Happiness

There was a childlike trust in her voice, and she seemed to grow more shy as she continued, "I'm going to make you so happy."

Gordon knew that she would. Always they would be just like this, her little blonde head pillowed confidingly on his shoulder, his arm holding her close and protecting her from the rest of the world.

"We're never going to quarrel, not the least little bit," Dulcy told him positively. "And I'm always going to help you in every way I can."

Gordon frowned, glanced at uneasily, began to speak, but Dulcy didn't hear him.

"I'll be a real wife; I shan't just make a home for you, but I'll help you at the office too," she was saying.

"But listen, Dulcy—"

"Oh, woman's place is in the office as well as in the home nowadays," she went on, glibly. "I'm going to surprise you with all the ideas I have for your business."

"That reminds me," Gordon tried to speak casually, "you'll have to stop coming to the office and rearranging things. It's getting so that I can't find anything in the files. There was one important paper in particular that has simply vanished. I had it just the other day, before you came down to show me those striped envelopes you though would be so pretty in the files."

Dulcy beamed.

"You don't mean that messy-looking yellow paper, do you? Why, I threw it away."

"You threw that away?" gasped Gordon. "You threw that valuable paper out?"

She had; she admitted it. In his fury he didn't dare trust his hands when her neck was so invitingly near. He gripped the wheel with all his strength, and the car whizzed down the road. The hum of the motor was drowned out by his voice rising in anger, and hers answering it. "You did" and "I didn't;" they sounded like a couple of katydids.

If Gordon and Dulcy never quarreled again in 50 years, their average would still be above normal after this afternoon. The row was at its height when Gordon pulled into a gas station and stopped.

"It isn't gas they need," the attendant mused, "it's a couple of pistols." And didn't even approach them.

Important Deal

"You're even trying to interfere with my deal with Forbes," Gordon was saying in a frenzy. "I'm sorry I ever told you about it. Just because you met his daughter Angela when you were in Connecticut last summer was no reason for suddenly writing to her as if she were your long-lost twin sister."

It made him no happier to notice that Dulcy was perfectly calm. Desperately, he went on:

"That deal's the most important development that has ever come up in my business and it will have to be handled very tactfully. No, you just let me—"

"Oh, all right," she broke in petulantly. "You can carry on your old business until you're ruined."

Grimly, Gordon made one last effort.

"Don't you see that I will be ruined if you keep helping me?" he began. But Dulcy's blue eyes were filled with tears, and her lips were quivering.

"I didn't mean that, sweetheart," he cried in a burst of tenderness, as she sobbed that she always did the best she could. He didn't mean anything, except that he loved her, he told her, over and over. He would never forgive himself for starting a quarrel today of all days.

Eventually, she cheered up and said that she was sorry, too.

"And—er—this Forbes matter," he began, slowly. "When their train comes in tomorrow you will let me go to meet them alone."

Dulcy looked at him aghast.

"Oh, no," she protested. "I couldn't do that. I've wired Angela that I will be there. It will be such a marvellous chance to help you."

Quarrel Renewed

The quarrel began again and ended as usual with victory for Dulcy. Over all of his protests, Dulcy was there in the station beside him when the train pulled in. She was even more jovial than usual when she explained to the Forbes that the torrential downpour was unusual for California. She waved aside Mr. Forbes' gruff efforts to collect his baggage and hurry to a taxi and kept him standing in the rain while she talked to him.

Gordon tugged at her sleeves, but without success. Angela and Mrs. Forbes stood by amazed at this cooing dove who dared to stand in the path of their raging lion. But Dulcy, blissfully unconscious of the sensation she was causing, was delightfully telling the bristling Forbes about the season's wonderful crops of avocadoes and oranges.

"And now that you're here to help Gordie," she insisted, tagging along after him as he broke away and bolted for the cars where Angela and his wife were waiting. "we'll have a bumper crop of artificial jewelry, too."

Forbes merely snorted as he got in the car, slamming the door and ordering the driver to hurry.

"You see," Gordon turned to her grimly. It must be obvious to Dulcy now that Forbes was not the sort of man she could handle. The harm she had already done might be hard to repair, but at least Dulcy would stop interfering after this rebuff.

"I see everything," she chuckled, exultantly.

Gordon looked at her in utter bewilderment. But still hopeful, he announced, "And after this you can just let me take care of the Forbes business. You won't even need to see him again."

Dulcy looked at him a little pityingly, as if he couldn't understand the magnitude of the occasion or her part in it.

"Oh, no, Gordie," she explained. "Angela has promised to bring him down next week end, and I'll fix everything for you then."

Gordon straightened his shoulders, as though he needed strength for the blow to come.

"Yes," he said grimly. "I'm afraid you will."

BODY ONLY SIGN OF LOST BOAT

BEAUMONT, Tex., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—The body of the second mate of the tug Edward F. Coney which sank in the Gulf of Mexico with its crew of 14 men during a storm last Tuesday night, has been recovered.

This was the only trace found by searching craft of the tug or its crew. The body of the second mate, Edward C. Van Beeck, of Port Arthur, was picked up 60 miles from Sabine Pass and taken to Port Arthur, Tex., by the yacht Versa of the Sabine Towing Company fleet. The company also owned the tug.

The barge Betenox which the tug was towing when it broke loose during the storm, did not put back into its home port. In tow of the tug W. E. Hutton, it continued on its trip to Pensacola, Fla.

PORTES GIL GLAD TO QUIT OFFICE

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—President Emilio Portes Gil told the cadets of the military academy that the happiest day of his life would be Wednesday, when he hands over the reins of office to President-elect Pascual Ortiz Rubio.

He said the cause of his rejoicing was that his successor was chosen at a free election and that surrender of the office to him was a significant step in the country's progress. He urged the cadets to co-operate with the new president and to draw their swords only to defend the noblest of causes.

Conneaut Lake Ice Harvest Lighter

CONNEAUT LAKE, Pa., Feb. 3.—Ice harvest at Conneaut Lake is well under way with a good crop of seven-inch ice being packed in waiting cars, and by Shontz and Co., in their own icehouses. The harvest, however, will not prove as extensive as other years. After 75 waiting cars are filled, the harvest will stop.

Wind storms have wrecked most of the old ice houses. Several hotels and clubs are harvesting enough for summer use.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Here's a revelation in flavor—richness, mellowness never before attained! Texture that's smooth and creamy. Plus new health benefits.

Kraft skilled cheese blenders pick the finest Cheddar cheese. Then—crowning achievement—they return to it all the precious elements that the usual cheese making loses. The milk sugar, calcium and other minerals of the pure, rich full cream milk.

All these valuable properties of good rich milk retained, not wasted! Velveeta is as digestible as milk itself, as natural a food for children.

Now you are offered this marvelous discovery. A secret protected by patent. A new scientific contribution to food enjoyment.

You spread Velveeta just as you would butter. You slice it, chilled, in clean, firm slices. For cooking, Velveeta adds new zest to any number of dishes. It delights you by melting and blending like magic. Ideal for toasting, too.

Give all the family, young or old, this new treat. The chance for free enjoyment of delicious cheese flavor. Your grocer has Velveeta in the half pound package. Try some today.

A distinguished authority says this of Velveeta

"Every element of the original milk is in Velveeta. As a food, it is more complete than ordinary cheese and as complete as milk. All the milk sugar, calcium, phosphorus and other milk minerals are retained. So too are the Vitamins A, B, C and D. Velveeta meets a real nutritional need. Containing proteins other than casein it is exceptionally easy to digest. Children can eat it freely as soon as they can handle food."

TAKE SALTS IF RHEUMATISM IS BOTHERING YOU

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat no sweets for awhile, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and, above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid or body waste matter, and is often generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this toxic acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste and stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

SLEEP WITHOUT DRUGS, SAYS EMINENT SPECIALIST

Former Battle Creek Sanitarium Physician States Amazing Flaxolyn Discovery Relieves Constipation Condition Naturally and Brings Sound, Restful Sleep by Perfecting Digestion.

Thousands of people here who formerly suffered nights of sleeplessness and days of agonizing stomach distress due to constipation, now feel fit, eat with keen appetites and sleep serenely since taking Nature's own formula, Dr. Luntz's Herbal Flaxolyn.

According to the statement issued by Dr. A. W. Herr, formerly physician at the Battle Creek Sanitarium, "Flaxolyn relieves in a natural way that dreaded condition called constipation. In many cases where auto-intoxication prevented sleep, the use of Flaxolyn has been the means of so cleansing the colon that natural sleep is now the usual thing and life has taken on a different meaning for these people."

Dr. Geo. Starr White, prominent Los Angeles health writer, and specialist, aroused kidney and stomach sufferers by taking an open stand in praise of Flaxolyn when he said last week, "I know of no remedy that can equal Herbal Flaxolyn as a corrective for 'self poisoning' due to constipation."

Dr. Benedict Lust, (M. D., N. D.), president of the American Naturopathic Association, says: "Flaxolyn is a natural food-laxative and priceless in all digestive ills."

That is the unique feature of Flaxolyn—it is a remarkable

Tonic-Laxative, Not a Drug

Hundreds of other doctors and health sanitariums all over the world have used Flaxolyn in the treatment of such symptoms as dizzy spells, liver disorders, indigestion, sleepless nights, kidney and bladder troubles and have already written in praise of Flaxolyn.

Don't wait. Start taking Flaxolyn today. Does not gripe, because it is a natural food. You will feel the tonic change at once. You will enjoy renewed vigor, a new grip on life.

Flaxolyn is sold in boxes containing many treatments at $1.00, postpaid, and may be obtained from all leading druggists. Flaxolyn is sold by all MAY DRUG CO. STORES all over Greater Pittsburgh, and your own neighborhood druggist.

CHAPLIN HITS OAKLAND HALL SITE

SIDE WALKS of Pittsburgh

by WILLIAM PFARR

NEW, modern houses may spring up in the Penn avenue territory which is bounded by Murtland and Lang avenues, but to the old residents the grounds have but one memory—the mansion of the late H. J. Heinz. Here were the greenhouse, the museum, the stable of fine horses and the home of the founder of a great business. The doors of the greenhouse and the museum were always open to the public and on Sunday the visitors were many.

More than one young man of Homewood could trace his first dimes to Mr. Heinz, and the reason is dandelions. Mr. Heinz's sweeping lawns were full of them. After school the boys of the neighborhood were hired by the noted citizen to pluck the dandelions. The remuneration was 10 cents an hour, a handsome sum for those days.

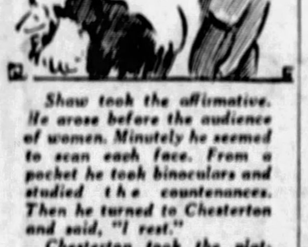
Prof. Howard Kidd, who divulges the secrets of transportation at Pitt, was riding a train in England last summer when an elderly, white-haired gentleman dropped into the seat alongside him.

"Would you allow me to see your paper?" the stranger inquired,



After a few minutes Prof. Kidd heard the stranger chuckling. The gentleman was reading the comics. Kidd studied the stranger's features and suddenly discovered that his neighbor was no less a personage than George Bernard Shaw.

Kidd introduced himself. They talked of this and that.

"I followed your debate with Gilbert Chesterton two years ago with great interest," Kidd told the noted writer.

"But you probably haven't heard of the last one we had," Shaw said, and he told Kidd a story.

A WOMEN'S club was importuning Shaw and Chesterton to stage another debate. The principals finally agreed on these conditions: That they were not to announce their subject beforehand; that they be allowed to take either side of the debate; that they be paid in advance.

And so it came to pass. In due time the subject of the debate was announced—"Is This the Ugliest Audience I Have Ever Faced?"

Shaw took the affirmative. He arose before the audience of women. Minutely he seemed to scan each face. From a pocket he took binoculars and studied the countenances. Then he turned to Chesterton and said, "I rest."

Chesterton took the platform. He, too, studied his audience. After a time he turned to Shaw and said, "You win."

The debate was ended.

OR maybe it wasn't Shaw and Chesterton, but two other fellows.

Will Rogers Says:

S. S. ILE DE FRANCE, Feb. 3.

I HAVE nothing to say and feel in no shape to say it in, if I did have. Lindbergh's ocean is as sore at the world as a defeated candidate. When I hinted that I would fly back if I could, I received a lot of cables offering to take me on, among them Mrs. Keith Miller, one of our best airshees.

My wife is not jealous, but she just never did like to have me stay out over the ocean all night with a strange woman or even a friendly woman. If we could have got in before dark she wouldn't have minded. 'Course we could have taken a chaperon, but not as much gas, and gas is more beneficial on a trip like that than a chaperon. It was just unfortunate all 'round.

Yours,

WILL.

LOVEJOY

Lovejoy Listens to Aline And Spends Lavishly

CHAPTER XXIII.

WITHOUT saying another word to Tom about the house Lovejoy went ahead and rented it.

"Now that I've actually taken it I'm scared to death," she told Aline, who had gone with her to see old Mr. Dunbar, the owner of the house, "I know we can't really afford it."

They were walking home through Stallings Lane. On either side of them were the little houses and yards of the modest quiet people who lived there. Mrs. Bennett was taking in a basket of clothes that she had hung out on the line in her backyard that morning before nine o'clock. In the afternoon sunlight the fresh linen gleamed like snow.

"Well, you can't live in a back-alley like this all your life, Lovejoy!" Aline answered sharply. "And listen to me—you'll never get any of the things you want unless you simply force Tom to give them to you. You've rented this house, and he's got to pay for it, hasn't he?—And if you go right ahead and buy the kind of furniture you want he'll have to pay for that, too. He probably has some money salted away somewhere."

Lovejoy thought that over.... Tom had said something about buying the little Stallings Lane house. Well, then, he probably did have some money "salted away" somewhere, as Aline put it.

"I'll take you to the shop where I bought all my furniture if you want me to," Aline went on. "You can open a charge account there, and you won't even have to think about the bills for a month."

They started out early the next morning in Aline's luxurious little car.

Runs Into Debt

Aline Prompts Lovejoy to Buy Expensive Furniture

For two weeks they shopped every morning.

"You may as well buy the best things they have," Aline advised Lovejoy every now and then when Lovejoy would hesitate between a chair that cost $75 and one that cost $100. "It's silly to buy cheap things. They don't wear."

But Lovejoy could not have bought cheap things in the Artcraft Furniture Galleries if she had wanted to.

For everything was expensive. And by the end of the third week in May she was afraid even to think of hat the bills would be when they came in. The thought of them kept her awake nights.

Another thing bothered her. Tom had made his garden in the backyard and almost every night in the week found him at work there until dark.

The little house drew him like a magnet these May nights. He would come rushing home at half past five so that he could play with the baby for a half hour before his bedtime. Young Tom was a lovely baby at nine months—a plump, rosy, cheerful baby who looked like the babies on the covers of women's magazines.

"He's as husky as they come, isn't he?" Tom asked one night when he brought him in from the backyard in his buggy. "It's been fine for him to sleep in that sun room, and the backyard is going to be a great place for him this summer. I'm going to put a gate across the driveway so that that police dog of Aline's can't get in the yard, and young Tom can have his nap out under the trees every bright day, can't he?"

Wins Over Tom

He Reconsiders When Old Furniture Is Mentioned

Lovejoy shook her head as she took young Tom from him.

"Not under those trees," she said gravely. "We aren't going to stay here, Tom. We can't—Tom, I should have told you that we couldn't long before you started your garden, Tom, I've taken the house on the corner—"

"The house I told you I couldn't afford to rent?" asked Tom. He shook his head as if he couldn't believe what she had told him.

"You can afford it!" Lovejoy cried. "You're making lots of money lately, Tom. You've been talking about buying this place, so you must have some money put away in the bank. . . . And I don't want this place! I want a good house and some furniture of our own. Why, the baby has never even had a bed of his own—just that old crib that was bought for some other baby that slept in that room before he did!"

For the baby had become the pride of Tom's life during the last couple of months. He would make funny, eager little noises when he heard Tom's voice, and he would hold out his small fat hands and beg Tom, in his baby way, to take him whenever he came near him.

"Yes, I suppose we ought to have our own furniture," Tom agreed, "instead of buying this stuff that's in this house."

"Of course we ought to!" Sudden relief shone in Lovejoy's lovely flushed face. "You've always told me about the haircloth sofas and the big old armchairs in your mother's house—and I want little Tom to grow up and remember his mother's things in just that same way. Tom, we've just got to have a home of our own!"

Tom turned to look out into the backyard where his plants were beginning to come up in neat little pale-green rows.

The sunset wind stirred the new leaves on the oak tree, and a bird was singing somewhere out in the lemon-colored afterglow.

"I'd have liked to buy this house, just the same," said Tom. If a grown man can be wistful, he was wistful then.

"It's a good house," he said. "It's one fine dump!" Lovejoy contradicted him.

"Tom says I can buy all the furniture I want!" she told Aline with triumph the next morning. "Well, that is, he didn't forbid me to get what I need for the new house. So I'm going to buy that wine-colored damask chair that I've been longing for."

Aline's Old Beau

She Arranges to See Him At Lovejoy's House

The last Thursday in May was cold and wet and windy.

All day gray rain came down in sheets and the wind went howling around the house like a wild beast.

At 1 o'clock Aline came running through the backyard

BANDITS ROB 2 GAS STATIONS

City and county police today were seeking bandits who held up two gasoline stations, one in Squirrel Hill and the other in Tarentum, last night.

Ordered to stand against the wall by an unmasked robber who prodded him in the back with a revolver, Louis McGaughey, 26, an attendant at the A. W. Hess filling station, Second avenue and Corbett street, Tarentum, was relieved of $126 of the firm's money. The robber ran outside and escaped in an automobile driven by a companion.

While stopping automobiles in search of the robbers, Patrolman Joseph Pierre, of Tarentum, and Constable Charles Renner, of East Deer Township, arrested Amiroco Posati, 28, of Arnold.

Two bandits, one of them armed, entered the station of the Standard Oil Company, at 4060 Beechwood boulevard, and ordered Edward Doerfler, of 5326 Ebdy street, an attendant, to throw up his hands. After rifling the cash register of $35, the pair escaped in an automobile.

'HOG' PREDICTS MORE WINTER

If one can believe the old story about the groundhog, six weeks more of winter is in store for Pittsburghers. Weather conditions in Pittsburgh yesterday were such that shadows could be well defined and if Mr. Groundhog ventured out at all during the day, it was very likely that he turned tail and ran back into his hole for another six weeks' rest.

News dispatches from Canoe Ridge, near Punxsutawney, the home of the groundhog weatherman, have it that the old man himself also saw his shadow.

Weather Forecaster W. S. Brotzman today predicted that rain and snow could be expected here. He said it probably would be warmer tomorrow.

URGES PLAN BE DROPPED BY COUNTY

Declares Selection Made Over Taxpayers' Protest; Thinks Area Too Small

If the Oakland site is the logical location for the Town Hall, then the same location, by the same reasoning, is the logical place for the new post-office, the Pennsylvania terminal, the new Gulf Refining building, the department stores, the city hall and the Chamber of Commerce, according to a statement issued today by James C. Chaplin, president of the Allegheny County Town Hall Association, sponsors of a downtown site.

The statement is an answer to the recommendation of the majority of the County Planning Commission. In summing up its arguments against the Oakland site, which is sponsored by F. F. Nicola, the Town Hall Association advocates the abandonment of the $6,000,000 Town Hall project rather than sanction, through mislocation a "monumental white elephant" and a "permament burden to the taxpayers," Mr. Chaplin said.

AREA TOO SMALL

"Mr. Nicola, who has something to sell, and five members of the Planning Commission are in agreement," said Mr. Chaplin. "They urge that this building, Allegheny county's greatest single enterprise, would be located on a small parcel of ground owned by Mr. Nicola in the Oakland district and three and one-half miles from the commercial and transportation center of the county.

"This recommendation was made over the protests of the taxpayers from every section of the county, including those from Mr. Nicola's own district, who realize that the jamming of any commercial enterprise into a small plot of land would foredoom the project to financial failure.

"They will know that this building would depreciate the value of other property in the same locality. This recommendation was made contrary to the unanimous expert opinion of managers of similar institutions in other cities to the effect that suburban or residential location for the Town Hall would be disastrous.

DOWNTOWN SITE ASKED

"If it is the county's desire to locate the Town Hall where it will serve the local and traveling public and produce a maximum of revenue, build it downtown.

"The members of the Town Hall Association have nothing to sell. We are merely taxpayers who will have to foot the bill of a monumental white elephant which the dumping of the $6,000,000 Town Hall money in Oakland will surely mean. Rather than proceed with such a colossal folly, we believe that the public interest will better be served by abandoning the Town Hall project altogether."

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's question: What is your opinion of the Borkowski manslaughter trial verdict?

MARY HUNYADY, West Park, saleswoman: "They deserved it. I thought for a while they would get off free. It isn't fun to cool your heels in jail, I guess, and I don't wish any man hard luck, but they earned what they got, from all I can find out. Their conviction doesn't repay Mrs. Borkowski for her loss, however."

Mary Hunyady

BERTHA SCHWARTZ, South Side, student: "I thought that was a terrible verdict. They were worse than the worst robber. I don't think they should have been electrocuted, understand, because I don't believe in this 'eye for an eye, tooth for a tooth' stuff. But they most certainly should have been given life imprisonment."

Bertha Schwartz

PAUL R. GOESSEL, Jeannette, Interior Decorator and Artist: "Yes, I think the verdict was right. They were officers of the law, and had some rights to mercy, for the deed was committed supposedly in the course of their duties. So two years is enough for them, the way I see it. Life imprisonment or the electric chair would have been a little too severe."

Paul Goessel

VIOLET ANDERSON, North Side, waitress: "Me, too. They should have been convicted. They are no better than the common man of the street, even though they are policemen. If I had been on that first jury, I sure would have voted to send them to the chair, or give them life, anyhow. Well, it's all over now, and I'm glad they got something for their trouble. They may not feel so good after two years in jail."

Violet Anderson

BETTY ROESCHENTAHLER, Mt. Oliver, Waitress: "I'll say they deserved it. They should have been convicted of murder in the first place. It's a pity that men like these should go free after serving only two years in jail. I don't see why they should have gotten off anyhow. The whole system of coal and iron police is wrong and this is proof of it."

Miss Roeschentahler

JOSEPH KLEIN, Squirrel Hill, hotelkeeper: "I think they should have been convicted of murder. The two years is better than nothing, though. Policemen should be treated the same as any other kind of person. It is only justice that such men as these should be made examples for other men who might do the same thing. Of course, we can't say positively that these men murdered Borkowski since they weren't convicted of murder."

Pittsburgh Man Buys Home Of President Monroe

"Ash Lawn," the historic home of James Monroe, fifth president of the United States, at Charlottesville, Va., has been purchased by Jay W. Johns, who plans to restore the property and make it into a shrine for patriots. Johns is president of the Atlas Fuel Corporation.

The purchase was completed Saturday, exactly 100 years to the day after Monroe executed the deed which gave him the title to the property.

Mr. Johns said his sole purpose in purchasing the property was to give the public one more landmark in the history of the nation. The property, under the terms of purchase, will remain intact and take its place with such landmarks as George Washington's Mount Vernon and Jefferson's Monticello.

Johns said he and his wife have been studying the letters and life of President Monroe, and that he will attempt to restore the property to as near the original as possible.

They stepped to the roadway as did Clifford Numler, 30, of Cline street Turtle Creek. They were knocked down, police say, by the machine of Ignatz Fruhwald, 1531 Ridge avenue, North Braddock. David Charles of 320 McKee Place, riding in Fruhwald's car, was injured.

When their automobile struck iron poles of a safety platform last night, George McCabe, 24, of 115 First street, Duquesne and Miss Helen Tierney, 24, of 411 Ninth street, Munhall were injured.

GIRL INJURED

The accident happened in front of the City-County Building. Miss Tierney suffered a broken nose and a fractured right ankle. McCabe was cut and bruised.

After a chase of more than 10 miles, Joseph Siska, 21, of 18 Hays Lane, Munhall, was arrested by Munhall police on charges of violating the automobile laws. Police say he is the hit-run driver that injured Mrs. Anna Kurns, 34, of 944 Smith Lane, Munhall, at Eighth avenue and Whittaker way last night. Police say they trailed Siska from Munhall to Homeville and back again. Mrs. Kurns is in the Homestead Hospital suffering body bruises.

Sam Holeczy, 43, of 1310 East street was cut and bruised last night when, police say, he was hit by the automobile of Peter Kollinger, Jr., of 717 Chestnut street at Chestnut street and Loretta way. Kollinger was arrested.

The largest number of fatalities among children occurred in May, when eight were killed. The total by months was:

CITY DETECTIVE SHAKEUP NEXT

More hiring and firing of city employes is expected this week as Mayor Charles H. Kline and his supporters mete out punishment to political opponents and make places for those who gave him their support in the recent mayoralty battle.

Numerous changes are expected this week, following the shakeups which involved more than 200 police and firemen. When the changes in the police and fire departments were announced, Friday and Saturday, it was admitted that they were the first of many changes the Mayor and his counselors were planning. Every department and bureau under the Mayor is to suffer some changes, it was said.

Mayor Kline's action in forcing retirement and demoting veteran members of both bureaus was attacked by members of the Bible classes of the Schenley Heights Methodist Episcopal Church, yesterday. The church people adopted resolutions in which they classed the Mayor's actions as "autocratic and un-American."

Elias J. John, for 35 years an employe of the Public Safety Department and one of the veterans to be ousted, is treasurer of the Schenley Heights church

Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh said Saturday that another shakeup for the police bureau is coming in less than two weeks. It is believed that this will take in the detective bureau.

These figures were compiled by the Treasury in reporting on income tax collections of last year, and were issued for publication today

A decrease of 53,588 in the number of returns as compared with the preceding year was noted, but the total of income taxes collected showed an increase of $316,014,283.

In the million dollar class, 241 persons had a revenue of from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000; 105 of from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000; 89 had incomes from two to three millions; 20 of from three to four millions and 17 had incomes of four to five millions.

The city's "white wings" today faced February with prospects of only four days' work each week. The same schedule also is in force for repairmen in the Bureau of Highways and Sewers. Approximately 600 men are affected by the order, sent out Saturday.

The cutting of work for the 600 men will reduce the payroll about $50,000. It is the custom of the Department of Public Works to cut down on the street force during February and March, because of weather conditions. The six-day working schedule will be restored with the arrival of spring.

Pittsburghers Go East To Be Attendants at Thomas Wedding

THE dull drab days of Lent seem far, far off with February opening with ever so many interesting things for the stay-at-homes and for those who haven't left yet for the South, for Europe, or California.

And as to his power over audiences—there is such an absence of doubt on this subject that I shall not argue with you." The late President Warren G. Harding was an ardent admirer of Judge Alden and said of one of his talks, "I was charmed with its subtle humor and admired the beauty of its diction." Senator Ferris, of Michigan, says: "Judge Alden is an orator of great power. He is a clear, incisive thinker and is a man who always presents before his audiences the highest ideals."

STYLISTS DESIGN CHEERFUL WINTER SPORT COSTUMES

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—There is nothing cold about the clothes designed this year for winter sports wear. Bright reds, cheerful blues, warm browns, will contribute their warmth to the white vista of the sports scene at the Alpine resorts where one skis and skates dull care away. The oft quoted "snows of yesteryear" never looked upon a gayer spectacle than will be unfolded this year with the aid of the designers here. Jane Regny and Schiaparelli are amongst the foremost of these designers of good looking and practical sports clothes, and they have had great success with their smart creations.

THIS winter has witnessed the advent and popularity of the little hand-knitted wool cap. Angora combined with velvet or felt has also been well liked. The wool cap was a logical successor to the tweed cap that was well received earlier in the season. These little wool caps with attached or separate scarves are nice little affairs, and many of them will find themselves nestling in numbers of traveling bags en route to Switzerland. Many attractive suits trimmed with gray or black astrakan have matching toques of the same fur. Then, of course, there is the pert little beret in flannel tweed angora and other woolens. There are many new and interesting developments in hats for written sport wear. The practical knitted cap is treated in a variety of novel ways so that it is as attractive as it is practical.

THE sports costume depicted here is from the fur house of MAX, known as a distinguished establishment. This skating ensemble consists of a bright-red, light-weight jersey jumper, a matching red pleated skirt of flannel and a belted coat of the flannel, trimmed with black astrakan. The round muff and and nice Cossack toque are of matching materials.

THE practical and becoming scarf and cap are in one. Over a snug little skullcap of handknit wool is twisted a wide band of the same material which frames the face, softening the line at edge of the cap and crossing in back at the nape of the neck. It forms a long scarf which may be wrapped about the throat. This attractive little cap is being made in all colors, and is well liked here.

* * *

THE second cap is of narrow bands of felt, bound together with heavy cord fagotting. This renders it very supple and shapes it to the head in a comfortable but clinging line. Little wing-like strips at the sides are looped back and forms a flat turned-up brim at the nape of the neck. Both of these caps were observed at the Palais de Glace, the wonderful indoor ice-rink here, that is drawing such fashionable crowds just now.

ALISON SKIPWORTH, PLAYING IN COLMAN PICTURE, HAD 20 STAGE FAILURES

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Staff Correspondent of The Sun-Telegraph)

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 3.

TO YE Gold Coast comes Alison Skipworth, W. K. stage comedienne. Miss Skipworth has been engaged to enact Lady Melrose in "Raffles," starring Ronald Colman. It so happens that the plumpish comedian has the startling record of 20 stage "flops" out of her last 20 efforts.

"How [illegible] you managed that many failures," asked a friend.

Ronald Colman

Anita Stewart reckons how she and husband George Cl[illegible] verse will hit the chuga trail to New York pretty soon . . Marion Spitzer, W. K. scribester, has a new novel coming out next week ycleptd "A Hungry Young Lady." To the Gold Coast comes Coleman Madden, hailed as one of the biggest racing bookmakers of the East for the past 20 years.

To Put 'Whoopee' On Talk Screen

YE scribe toddled over to the Sam Goldwyn offices to learn what matters of varied importance could be chucked in today's gadaboutings. And in to see Sam, himself, recently returned from London and New York. He returned with plans for a technicolor music version of "Whoopee." Eddie Cantor, star of this Ziegfeld hit, will arrive here March 15 to create his role in the talky. Mr. Ziegfeld arrives, March 17. Joseph Urban, W. K. scenic artist, arrives about the same time. Slews of beautiful Ziegfeld girls ditto. Thornton Freeland, youthful United Artists megaphoner, will direct. A barrel of money will go into the "Whoopee" coffers ere "Whoopee" hits the silver sheet.

Eddie Cantor.

For this reason, Mr. Goldwyn severely upon ye scouter, Sam can't hand the style of this department a darn thing. And he doesn't. He reckons there's menace in frivolous penning and dededucts, perhaps accurately in this case, that where there's no feeling there's no sense. 'Tis no more than fair to let the feller sittting on the other side of the colyum fence get in a word edgewise at times. So I'm merely attempting to extend Mr. Goldwyn editorial courtesy, minus comment. I may be dangerous but I'm good-natured . . .

DESERT 'ROBS' NOOSE IN HARRIS

Desert sand stretches for miles on the Harris screen this week and a merciless sun beating down discloses drama that is off the beaten track of film fare. The picture is titled "Hell's Heroes" and it arouses interest because it is different.

Three badmen of the Western country rob a bank and then attempt a wild getaway across the desert. They run across a baby and a dying mother in an abandoned wagon and promise the woman to take the infant back to a mining town. Then they start out to keep their promise knowing that the noose awaits them if they succeed.

But that desert—cruel and relentless—seems to have a jealous streak in it. It seems to want to beat the noose to it. And it succeeds . . . Just one of the three badmen is able to make it to the mining town. But the desert claims even him, though the baby is saved for civilization and for whatever else a puzzling fate holds in store.

There is no romance in "Hell's Heroes." But its story packs some tense drama. And Charles Bickford, Raymond Hatton and Fred Kolher are three badmen who are good actors.

The stage offers "Winter Carnival," with Victor Graff in his usual role of master of ceremonies. Some trick roller-skaters and several comedians are among the features.

The bill includes screen shorts and an organlogue.

9 out of 10 Screen Stars keep their skin petal-smooth with Lux Toilet Soap

LAURA LA PLANTE, beloved Universal star, uses Lux Toilet Soap both in her own beautiful bathroom and in her dressing room on location. She says: "Lux Toilet Soap gives my skin the same marvelous smoothness the finest French soaps do."

THE GIRL whose skin is smooth and lovely, so that people inevitably turn to admire her, has the gift of attracting romance!

"There's amazing allure in beautiful smooth skin"—as Carl Laemmle, Jr., says.

"Lovely skin is the one charm every star must have. Make-up is little help under the glare of close-up lights. The skin itself must be exquisite."

This is the conclusion of 45 leading Hollywood directors who know from long experience with motion pictures just which kind of beauty has the strongest appeal for the great public.

The charming screen stars found out long ago that by using Lux Toilet Soap they can keep their skin always smooth and soft.

Of the 521 important actresses in Hollywood, including all stars, 511 are devoted to it. Also, all the great film studios have made it the official soap for their dressing rooms.

The Broadway stage stars are equally enthusiastic about this white, delicately fragrant soap. And now, too, in France, in Germany, in England, the lovely European screen stars are using this soap.

Are you using Lux Toilet Soap? You will find that it keeps your skin just as exquisitely smooth as it keeps the stars'. And how luxuriously it lathers, even in the hardest water!

You'll love it. Order several cakes—today.

(Below) EVE SOUTHERN, beautiful star with Tiffany Productions, Inc., is enthusiastic about Lux Toilet Soap—just as 511 of the 521 important actresses in Hollywood are. She says: "Of course, every woman wants a lovely skin—but for a star it is essential. Lux Toilet Soap keeps my skin beautifully smooth."

Luxury such as you have found only in fine French soaps at 50¢ and $1.00 the cake . . . NOW 10¢

BREEZY GOBS SAIL INTO SHERIDAN

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Jack Oakie is in the Navy now, doing a swell job of the hero role in "Hit the Deck," song, dance and talk film, which came breezing into the Sheridan Square Saturday. And, as a sailor boy, this Oakie is some Romeo. He admits the women are wild about him. But he ends up by forgetting the girls in every port and goes into a love song and a clinch with the heroine at the grand fadeout.

The production is based on the Belasco play, "Shore Leave," which once was a vehicle for Richard Barthelmess on the silent screen and which also was turned into the musical "Hit the Deck" on the stage. All of which may have something to do with theatrical evolution—if anyone is interested.

In its present form "Hit the Deck" is an entertaining and breezy production. The movie-makers have kept pretty well to the original story and have elaborated a lot on the scenic stuff. As an example, we cite the spiritualist meeting and big Negro chorus that is introduced to put over the "Hallelujah" number.

A good cast of stage and screen talent supports Mr. Oakie. Polly Walker plays the heroine and her singing and talking voice, though it flies high at times, registers satisfactorily. The picture, of course, is crowded with laughs—which is something you expect when a lot of wise-cracking sailor-boys get together. And if you like color, you'll be pleased to learn that there is a sequence or two in Technicolor.

The story has to do with the romance between a wise-guy gob and a little girl who operates a coffee shop. When she sees this sailor, whose name happens to be Smith, it is love at first sight for her. But it takes a lot of film footage before she makes an impression on him.

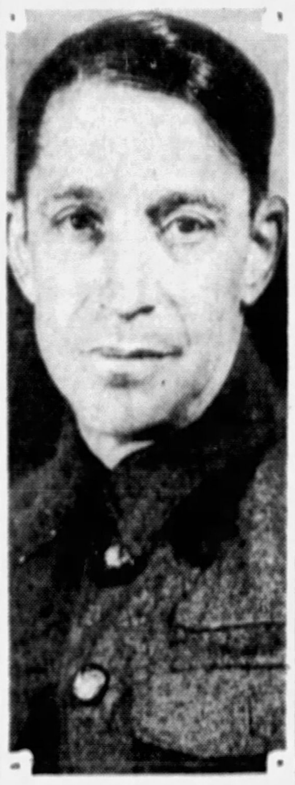
Glass Container Business Grows

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 3—A material increase in production is in prospect for the Capstan Glass Company, according to S. B. DeMerrell, sales manager. He estimates 2,500 carloads will be shipped this year, an increase of 400 cars over 1929. The firm manufactures glass food containers. Its production is nearly 3,000,000 pieces weekly.

Driver, Parents Beaten by Pair

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio, Feb. 3.—Because he did not turn out for an automobile from Kenmore, two of its four occupants attacked Harvey Shull, 21, Stone Creek road, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Shull, knocking them down and choking Mrs. Shull, at Shull's corner, according to Sheriff Harry Smith, who will file charges against the motorists.

Sans Women



Fred Monti is a member of the cast of "Journey's End," a play with no woman in it, coming next week to the Alvin.

Leiber, Skinner Feature Week's Stage Bills

Fritz Leiber, presenting eight plays by Shakespeare in six night and two matinee performances, will open a week's engagement in the Alvin tonight, the initial work to be "Richard III."

Otis Skinner comes to the Nixon tonight in "Pasa Juan," comedy with a Spanish background. There will be the usual matinees.

The George Sharp Players will present a comedy, "Jonesy," in the Pitt tonight and the remainder the week, with Thursday and Saturday matinees.

Next week the attraction in the Alvin will be "Journey's End," the company being one entirely of men in which no player is starred or featured.

"The Vagabond King," operetta, with music featured by Rudolph Friml, will be the attraction in the Nixon the week of February 10.

TEN-DAY FOOD SHOW PLANNED

The fourteenth annual Food Show will open in Motor Square Garden February 19, according to J. V. Loughran, secretary of the Retail Grocers' Association of Pittsburgh. The exposition will have a 10-day run.

Space has already been sold to many distributors, Loughran says, with further space sales expected during this week. A larger show than last year's anticipated, with special attention to entertainment features.

The exhibits will be principally of nationally-known foodstuffs. It is planned to have a series of lectures by authorities on diet, menus, recipes, and general housekeeping.

STOWE TAXES UNCHANGED

At the annual budget session held by Stowe Township commissioners the tax rate in force during 1929 was unchanged and the rate for 1930 will be 13½ mills.

The total millage will be divided almost equally to provide for the necessary expenses and also for maintaining of a fund for bonded indebtedness. Seven mills will be devoted to general purposes and the remaining 6½ will be set aside for a sinking fund. The assessed valuation of the township is $9,018,028, and on this basis the possible returns in taxes is $135,243.36, of which $70,126.19 has been set aside for general purposes and $65,117.17 for the sinking fund.

Petition Board For New School

A committee composed of Clifford Wickman, Dr. R. A. Hutchison, C. L. Buckley, Mrs. Anna Strutzel, E. Switzer, Edward Toole and John J. McGrath appeared before the school board and petitioned for a new building to care for the added territory occasioned by the annexation of Overbrook. The territory also comprises East Brookline. Action was deferred on the petition.

TRAFFIC RULES INDORSED

A score of civic, fraternal and military organizations have made known their approval of the proposed codified traffic ordinance, submitted to Council last month by the Better Traffic Committee, according to Edwin C. May, chairman of the committee's law and enforcement section.

Several of the organizations were especially in favor of the auto tag check-up plan included in the proposed ordinance. This system would make it difficult for motorists to ignore tags left upon their machines for parking violations, or have them "fixed."

Fine Three-Year Record. | More Ice Tilts Shifted.
Panthers Win 23 Games. | Buffalo May Get Bucs.
Lose Only Four Times. | Hitchcock Polo's Best.

WARNER'S MARK HERE STILL STANDS.

ATTENTION is drawn by Dr. J. B. Sutherland, Pitt football coach, to an impressive record that has been generally overlooked when he says that Ray Montgomery, Joe Donchess, Tom Parkinson, Toby Uansa, Charley Edwards and others who served in 1927, 1928 and 1929, and whom the Panthers are losing by graduation, will go out with the distinction of having played on a team that was defeated only twice in regularly scheduled games during the three seasons of their careers.

Ray Montgomery

No one had noticed that Pitt made such an unusual record in football during the last three years, but Dr. Sutherland is borne out by the dope books. The Panthers actually lost four games in that period, but two of the defeats were suffered in post-season events on the coast, one at the hands of Stanford following the 1927 campaign, and the other in the meeting with Southern California last New Year's Day. The only additional reverses were administered by Carnegie Tech and West Virginia in 1928. All of the 25 other games played during the last three seasons were won except a tie with W. & J. in 1927 and a draw with Nebraska in 1928.

IN A TOTAL of 27 games in three consecutive full schedules, therefore, aside from the post-season numbers in California, Pitt came through with 23 victories against only two defeats and two ties. Penn State and Allegheny were beaten three times each. Carnegie Tech, W. & J., West Virginia, Nebraska and Thiel twice each, and Ohio State, Syracuse, Drake, Duke, Waynesburg, Grove City and Bethany once each.

Not a world record, of course, but a most unusual showing, any way you look at it, and particularly so in view of the tough nature of much of the opposition. Truly, as Coach Sutherland remarks, the outgoing Panther gridders may feel themselves to be the holders of an exceptional distinction in having played on a team that leaves behind it such a record for their three years of varsity activity.

THE Panther coach himself, however, may look back with even greater pride upon the monument that stood for his own team at Pitt when his playing days ended at the close of the season of 1917.

For Sutherland played four years instead of only three, and when he withdrew from collegiate gridiron competition as one of the country's greatest guards his team had gone through three straight seasons without a defeat or even a tie, and in four campaigns had lost just a single game.

Dr. J. B. Sutherland

THAT stands as the real record at Pitt. In Sutherland's playing time, from 1914 to 1917, inclusive (the first year under Joe Duff and the following three under Pop Warner), the Panthers' only defeat was a 13-to-10 silverthrow at the hands of W. & J. They won eight and lost one in 1914, won eight and lost none in 1915, won eight and lost none in 1916, and won 10 and lost none in 1917, a total of 34 victories against only one defeat in four successive seasons. The only men whose careers ended with that of Jock and who shared with him the distinction of having played all four years in the making of that remarkable record were Dr. H. C. Carlson, present Pitt basketball coach, and W. H. (Foxy) Miller, now coach at Union High School in Tuttle Creek.

DURING the last three years of that period Warner coached Pitt to the greater part of its best all-time football record. The Panthers were not defeated, nor even held to a tie, in 1915, 1916 or 1917, and they also went undefeated in the curtailed season of 1918 without a defeat until they lost to the Cleveland Naval Reserves, 10 to 9, in an extra number.

This shows that from the beginning of the Warner regime here in 1915, the Blue and Gold gridders won 31 games in a row before they were beten. The capture of every game in three straight seasons is a standout. Not even Notre Dame has ever equaled that performance. The best record of the Irish for three years is 28 victories and one defeat, made through 1919, 1920 and 1921.

FOLLOWERS of horse racing in England are manifesting much interest in a plan being considered by the Racecourse Betting Control Board, a body operating under the control of Parliament, to promote a huge advance pool on the English Derby.

The Calcutta and the Stock Exchange draws on the big Epsom race are of long standing, but it is expected that the proposed pool would carry a stronger appeal than either to the betting public. According to the plan outlined, any one desiring to participate in the pool would buy a chance on a horse at the course totalisators or weeks before the Derby through other channels.

Benny Leonard

NOT only is the hockey season over for Pittsburgh as far as the home team's having a chance to get anywhere in the championship race is concerned, but there is very little left of it to be seen on the local ice. Benny Leonard and his associates in the ownership of the Pirates evidently have decided not to wait until next season before carrying out their threats to take big league hockey out of this city, but have proceeded to transfer most of the games scheduled for Duquesne Garden during the remainder of the present campaign.

NOT only has the game with Boston slated for next Saturday night here, been transferred to Fort Erie for a new date, February 12 following the shifting of the tilt with Les Canadiens on March 1 to Atlantic City, but the meeting with the Rangers on March 15 has also been moved to the seashore resort and arrangements are pending whereby the closing number of the season, booked for March 18 here with Detroit, will be played instead at the home of the Cougars.

Instead of six games, as scheduled, therefore, only three remain to be staged in Pittsburgh. Chicago is to play here on March 8, Toronto on February 20 and Montreal Maroons on February 22. Seemingly, the Pirate owners are bent on getting out in a hurry and salvaging as much as possible from the season's financial wreckage. It is argued that the gates here are not totaling $2,000, whereas Pittsburgh's share of the receipts when a game was played with Chicago in Atlantic City recently exceeded $4,000. The locals also received a $4,000 share for a Boston transfer.

MEANWHILE the paring of expenses in other directions is to be continued. The payroll is to be cut down and several players are to be dropped as soon as possible. Herb Drury, who has been here for more years than any other player has spent continuously in one city, is said to be among those booked for release.

As to what city they have in mind for the proposed transfer of

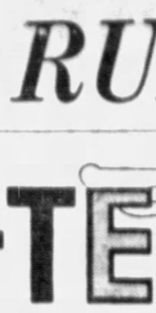
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—The University of Southern California leads the Southern Division of the Pacific Coast Conference Basketball League today, while the University of Washington quintet tops the Northern Division. The Southern California Trojans climbed to the division top by defeating the University of California Bears quintet Saturday, 24 to 22, while the Huskies downed the Washington State College Cougars in a two game series.

PETE OPPOSED TO BARBUTI WEDNESDAY

By JESS CARVER

Mistah Petah Bowen, of the University of Pittsburgh, who is busily engaged in chasing about the country indulging in indoor track meets, is face to face with a very strenuous program, which will keep him hoppin' from now until the opening of the outdoor campaign.



Pete Bowen

Mistah Petah begins this period of intense activity this week Wednesday night, in Newark. Pete will try 500 yards in the annual Newark A. C. games, and is to have as one of his opponenets Ray Barbuti, who will make his own debut as an indoor sprinter. Pete defeated in all of his indoor starts to date, says he is running better each time. Bowen uses a straight leg action, which is not so good for indoor racing, as it is very hard on one's pins.

THIS IS GOOD

You see, when one uses the straight leg stride, you take the shock of the board track on the entire leg. Sprinters who bend their knees break this shock considerably and are able to get better results than the straight leggers until the latter become hardened to the grind. Very simple.

On Saturday, Pete will compete in the annual Millrose A. C. games in New York. This time, he'll try 600 yards. On the following Monday, which is a week from today, unless they mess up the calendar between now and then, Petah will compete at 500 yards at the Seton Hall College games in East Orange, N. J.

Five days later, at the Boston A. A. carnival in Beantown, Pete will run another 600-yard race and two days after that, in New York, he'll return to the 600 yard distance at the New York A. C. meet.

After two weeks of rest, following the N. Y. A. C. start, Pete will compete in the National Intercollegiates March 1, and March 8, will represent Pitt in the National Indoor Track and Field championships. He is to run 300 yards on both occasions.

PITT, DUKES FALL

Messers. Carlson and Davies are weeping on one another's shoulder today, or would be if Doc wasn't in New York and Chick in Homestead. The Panthers fell by the wayside at Syracuse, the Orangemen spoiling the perfect record of the Panthers with a 40-29 setback.

Chick's Dukes were shoved from the lead in the Tristate Conference when Bethany avenged that extra-period defeat suffered here earlier in the season. The Bisons ran wild against Duquesne, piling up a 21-8 lead at half time.

Syracuse may brag of its win over Pitt, and the two gents who bottled up Charley Hyatt so effectively are very likely the heroes of Syracuse today. The defeat was not entirely unexpected, for Syracuse was known to have a fine team, and it lived up to its reputation.

RACE JUMBLED

The defeat of the Dukes makes the Tristate Conference race more hectic than ever. Bethany must get back into action again tonight, playing Westminster, one of the teams tied with the Bisons and Dukes for the lead, at New Wilmington. By morning, there will be a new leader. Tomorrow night, Duquesne invades Geneva and may further scramble the race by losing another. Westminster gained a place in the three-way

BABE ISSUES STATEMENT ON PAY WAR

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—In a formal statement made public today, Babe Ruth announced that unless the New York Yankees met his demands for an $85,000 contract, he would retire from organized baseball.

The statement from Ruth was made public by letter, received from Miami, Fla., today.

"If the Yankees reject my request for an increase, I will remain idle, which at my age means retirement from baseball," the statement read in part. "I mean organized baseball. A few years ago I could not take this attitude. I would be obliged to sign at any terms for the same reasons 95 per cent of all ball players have to sign—bread and butter. Well, there's enough bread and butter in our home, even if I never touch another baseball in my life, without receiving five cents from the Yankees in 1930. I am assured an income of $25,000 from established dividends and royalties."

Ruth added that his income would be supplemented by "whatever I can pick up on the side." He said he had returned unsigned his contract, which is believed to have called for $75,000,000 over a two-year period, and darkly hinted that, if the worst came to the worst, he would engage in exhibition games throughout the year. In such a case, his suspension for at least a year would be almost automatic.

"During the winter" the statement continued, "I rejected easy money in vaudeville and talking pictures to keep myself in shape but, if the Yankees force me into retirement, I will accept some of the many offers, which include a variety of entertainment propositions, exhibition games during the summer and even an offer from a circus. But I prefer to stick with the Yankees at $85,000 per year on a three-year contract."

Holy Cross Seeks Tom Lieb as Coach

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Tom Lieb, chief aide to Knute Rockne, of Notre Dame, may go to Holy Cross as head football coach next year, it was reported today following several conferences between Holy Cross alumni and Lieb. Lieb arrived here Saturday for the veteran athletes' banquet and shortly after his arrival he was sought out by alumni of the Worcester, Mass., institution.

The Notre Dame graduate, however, is understood to have not made any committment as yet. He went on to New York today to confer with representatives of other institutions.

Mitinger Resigns As Kiski Coach

GREENSBURG, Pa., Feb. 3.—Robert B. Mitinger, of Greensburg, for the past two years football coach at Kiskiminetas Springs School, Saltsburg, announced here today that he has tendered his resignation.

While coaching at Kiski, Mitinger had signal success with his teams. His 1929 eleven won five games, lost two and tied one, playing through a stiff schedule. His 1928 team lost only one game.

Mitinger is engaged in the practice of law here and is a graduate of Greensburg High School and Lafayette College.

SPORTS DINNER GIVEN BOOST BY REGAN

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Sports of all sorts will be lauded and patrons of the various games will make merry Thursday night when the local chapter, Baseball Writers' Association of America, stages its second annual dinner at the William Penn Hotel.

The baseball boosters today added another big kick to the affair in a request for a table from Bill Regan, clever second baseman of the Boston Red Sox, whose home is in Brookline. The Native Son will be present at the festival with nine of his friends.

Bill Regan

Diamond performers will be numerous throughout the hall and many leagues of the country will be represented by these ball tossers, including the two major circuits. At the Pirate family table will be quite a few of the Buccos.

MACKRELL TOASTMASTER

Toastmaster Joseph N. Mackrell is warming up for a big job on the mound of Pirate hall. The former scribe was given this role at the first dinner and he showed so much stuff that he was asked to go in again. Joe will have a number of good things to offer the fans. Around him on the dais will be a galaxy of prominent men who will respond to toasts. Most of them will have a sport connection, but not all of them.

Bishop Alexander Mann will give the invocation and Rabbi Benjamin Lichter prayer. In between the two clergymen will be a host of speakers who are sure to be interesting. Moreover, there will be many celebrities introduced, some of who are likely to listen to a call for speeches.

President F. R. Evens, of the Schenley Matinee Club, will be host for a gathering of harness-racing men who will be grouped about Evens' table.

MEETING TOMORROW

John L. Hernon, general chairman of the banquet committee, is able to care for those who seek reservations. Owing to the immense size of the hall, a vast throng can be served. Hernon's address is Box 218, Pittsburgh, or he can be reached on the telephone at Montrose 3364.

The final meeting of the various committees will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 in the William Penn Hotel.

BAKER, TRIPPE MEET AGAIN IN GARDEN

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Pittsburgh's Battle of the Aeons is set for tonight at Motor Square Garden, and, judging from the comment it has evoked, not even the lame and the halt and the blind will fail to make their way there for the fist-flurry.

Sergt. Sammy Baker, of New York, and Joe Trippe, of Rochester, N. Y., will be the principals. It is a return battle. On January 6, the pair came to this man's town and put on such an exhibition of legalized brutality that they knocked the customers out of their seats, Baker winning the decision through the medium of a torrid finish. Some of the fans thought Trippe's early lead entitled him to a draw at the very worst. A rematch was the logical way to settle all arguments.

Joe Trippe

MAY DEFY TRADITION

Now, if the thing works out according to tradition, the return bout tonight ought to be the worst flop in local history. Return bouts are that way. Seldom is the second match as good as the first. But, then, there must be exceptions to prove the rule and it is on the theory that this bout may be the exception that the fans have swamped the Garden management for reservations and will be bulging out the walls and jamming the entrances tonight. It looks like the biggest night's business for the Garden since the memorable Jack Zivic-Lew Tendler battle, when a seat in the rafters was worth a king's ransom, or since Milt Crandall's dance marathon.

Both Baker and Trippe arrived in town on Saturday and Baker worked out both that day and yesterday at Flynn's gym, while Trippe limbered up in the Garden gym yesterday. Each was talking of winning by a quick knockout.

Sonnenberg Issues Defi to All Rivals

FLINT, Mich., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Gus Sonnenberg hurled a defi today to every heavyweight wrestler in the world.

Informed that the National Boxing Association had barred him as champion for failure to enter the elimination tournament, Sonnerberg said:

"I'll enter any open tournament the N. B. A. or any other wrestling body wants to stage, thus giving every man a chance."

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—The Kansas City American Legion's heavyweight wrestling tournament, which it hopes will develop a logical challenger for the crown now claimed by Gus Sonnenberg, is scheduled to open here February 13. Wrestlers who have posted their forfeit money include Strangler Lewis, Stanley Stasian, Joe Stetcher and Pat McGill.

Loud Speaker At Garden Tonight

As an experiment, a loud speaker will be used in making announcements at the boxing show at Motor Square Garden tonight. All announcements except the indication of the winners will be made from the speaker's table in the band stand. Music also will be played for the entertainment of the early arrivals and between bouts.

If the arrangement proves a success it will be continued at later shows.

The Athletics joined the American League in the second year of its existence. Benjamin Shibe was the first president and Connie Mack the first manager. Mack still remains at the helm, having made plenty of baseball history with the Athletics during the 29 years he has piloted them. In their first year, the Philadelphias won 74 and lost 62 games, finishing fourth with a percentage of .554. The team hit .287 and fielded for .936.

Although Larry Lajoie's name appears in this lineup, it was the only game the Frenchman played for the A's. Along about the eighth inning of this game, Manager Mack received word that Larry was enjoined from further play with Philadelphia and he later was sold to Cleveland. The message arrived too late, however, to prevent Lajoie from collecting three solid blows in the Athletics' cause.

Charley Carr, who played first base in this game, later came into prominence with a school for ball-players, while Dave Fultz, the shortstop, later became a league head and president of the Baseball Players' Fraternity.

Eager to obtain a firmer grip of first place in the second half of the Allegheny County League, the Fintex team will be out to register its third successive triumph tonight when it opposes the Homestead Ackermans on the Duquesne University floor.

The Fintex quintet took undisputed possession of first place Saturday night when it defeated the Charleroi Lions on the latter team's home floor. The Homestead Ackermans, after dropping their first game in the second half, came back in their second game to score a close victory over Dad Rogers' rejuvenated Allentown passers.

The Ackermans have a knack of playing their best basketball when opposed to the Fintex passers, and tonight's battle is expected to develop into a contest of thrills from start to finish. Both teams include in their lineups prominent local professional stars, and the two rivals are evenly matched. Fintex must win tonight to retain its hold on first place.

In the preliminary game the Lou Gordon Juniors will go after their fourteenth straight victory of the season. This team has not lost a game so far this year.

Dribbles

The Allentown Club, judging from the showing it made in the first two games of the second half of the County League fight, will prove no setup for any of the teams. Allentown defeated Charleroi in the first and barely was nosed out by the Homestead Ackermans Saturday. Harvey Lecollier appears to have bolstered the club considerably.

The Gobernaires of the County League invade Jeannette tonight to meet the Jeannette Feeders. This team for years competed with the best clubs in the tri-state district and this year it is reported that the Westmoreland Countians are stronger than ever.

The Penn Five stays at the Ray Schneiders and the Knickers at the South Side Falcons in the two West Penn League games carded tonight. Wednesday night the Penn Five entertains the Fintex team of the County League on the Sharpsburg High School floor.

The Commercial-Industrial League has two high-class games to offer its followers tonight. The Pittsburgh and Lake Erie team, winner of the first-half championship, opposes Bravo Construction at Rome, while Carnegie Steel appears on the Reich's floor.

PURDUE BACK IN RACE

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—After leading the Western Conference basketball championship race for three weeks, without playing a league game, Purdue will go back into action this week with excellent prospects of substantially adding to its margin.

The Boilermakers topped the league during its examination period on the strength of its two early season triumphs over Michigan and Northwestern, and this week will play two more contests against a pair of tailenders. Tonight Purdue will entertain Ohio State's hard luck five at Lafayette and on Saturday Coach Ward Lambert's team will meet Chicago, loser of four straight, at Chicago.

Ohio State and Illinois also will play two games this week. The Buckeyes, after meeting Purdue, will entertain Indiana at Columbus Saturday night. Illinois looks good to wind up in a tie for second place with Wisconsin. The Illini will meet Chicago at Champaign Wednesday night, and will invade Minnesota Saturday night.

ICE DATES CHANGED

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Because of unfavorable ice conditions at Chamonix it has been decided to hold the contest for the final of the European ice hockey and championship between Germany and Switzerland at the Sport Palace here next Sunday. The winner will meet the Canadian national team the following Monday for the world championship.

W. & J. COACHES AT ODDS

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 3.—Division of authority in the coaching of Washington and Jefferson's football team has not proved a success, according to reports from the campus, which indicate that Ray Ride and Bill Amos, joint gridiron tutors at the institution last season, are at the parting of the ways. While secrecy has been maintained regarding the situation, it is known that Amos and Ride have agreed they cannot carry on, on a basis of equal authority next season, unless both have a decided change of heart. They are to meet with the alumni advisory authorities and the athletic council coaching committee this week in an effort to arrive at some satisfactory adjustment. The prediction by those who are regarded as the best-posted in Wash-Jeff's gridiron affairs is that the two will not be re-engaged for next season.

Ride and Amos were working under a one-year contract last season and have not been resigned for 1930. It is apparent that failure to sign a coaching staff for next season has been due to the inability of the athletic council to straighten out the present situation.

Gus Sandberg, Former Giant Catcher, Dies

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Gus Sandberg, veteran catcher for the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast League, died here early today. Sandberg, formerly with the New York Giants, had been severely burned about the head yesterday when the gasoline tank of his car exploded.

Sandberg came here several years ago from the Giants. He was 34 years old. Police said Sandberg drained the tank on his car and then lighted a match to see if it was empty. A blast that caught the ball player full in the face followed.

Parkersburg Quits Tri-State League

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Accepting the withdrawal of the Parkersburg Club, officials and club owners of the Tri-state Baseball League meeting here yesterday offered a seven-day option to Logan for the relinquished franchise. Parkersburg withdrew, officials said, because the club was not a financial success last season. Cities now in the league are Charleston, Huntington, Williamson and Beckley, W. Va., and Ashland, Ky.

SHUTE TEXAS OPEN VICTOR

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—While a gallery of 8,000 spectators stampeded in his course, Densmore Shute, slim young Columbus, O., professional, continued his calm, unruffled golf yesterday to win the ninth annual Texas open tournament with a total score of 277 strokes. On his final round he took a par 71 to win the $1,500 first prize.

Three stars who threatened to pass Shute throughout the final 36 holes finished in a tie for second place, each with 280 strokes. They were Al Espinosa, Chicago; Neal McIntyre, Indianapolis, and Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del. They divided $1,700 in prize money between them.

Bumbaugh Wins Duckpin Contest

The final roll-off in the high single duckpin game contest at the Market Square Recreation and Elba Recreation resulted in a tie for Frank Bumbaugh, whose combined total for two games was 334, just seven pins more than turned in by H. F. Prevost. H. F. Amey took third honors with a 309 score.

J. G. McConnell had the distinction of rolling both the highest and the lowest score in the contest, his game totals being 194 and 100. His combined score of 294 gave him fourth place prize. Bumbaugh was awarded a suit of clothes, with $15, $10 and $5 going to Prevost, Amey and McConnell in the order named.

BUCS PREPARE FOR OTTAWA

By CARL W. SHATTO.

With spirits buoyed and morale bolstered by recollection of the well-earned 3-2 victory which they achieved at the expense of the Detroit Cougars Saturday, the Pirate icemen showed plenty of the old pep and dash as they went through a stiff workout at Duquesne Garden today in preparation for their clash with the Ottawa Senators here tomorrow night.

Hib Milks

The Bucs' revamped starting lineup, featuring Hib Milks at defense and Gordon at center, showed so much class against the Michiganders that it will not be subject to further experimentation, but the release of Tex White to the Duluth Club, of the American Association, makes it necessary for Manager Frank Frederickson to change the makeup of his spare line. Cliff Barton probably will be moved up to right wing on the reserve forward wall to take the place of the departed Tex.

MILKS BRILLIANT

Milks and Fraser, by turning in great performances against the Detroiters, made Freddie's starting lineup shifts look like a work of genius. In addition to playing a bang-up game at defense, Hib led the Pirate attack time after time, and Fraser at center, showed his versatility checking very effectively in addition to paving the way for the Bucs, first two goals, ably banged home by Harold Darragh.

Although very much in the cellar in the standings, the local puckmen are in a good position to win season series from at least three of their high-and-mighty rivals. Their Saturday trumph enabled them to even the season series with the Cougars at two-all, and Ottawa and Toronto, also, can boast of nothing better than an even break in their feuds with the locals.

LAST APPEARANCE HERE

The Senators, whose style of play is very similar to that of the Detroiters, were humbled by a 3-1 score the last time they appeared here, and it is not likely that they will rule better than an even choice to win tomorrow.

The game will mark the Ottawans' last appearance of the season here, and, because of some schedule juggling, it will be the last to be staged at the Garden until February 20. The first Ottawa-Pittsburgh meeting provided many thrills and much fast, hard hockey, and a capacity crowd is expected to witness the renewal of the debate.

Jess Spring, defense veteran out of the last 10 days with a leg injury, is expected to be back in harness tomorrow.

BAKER, TRIPPE MEET AGAIN

especially Baker. Quoth Sammy, the veteran:

"I had Trippe just about ready for the cleaners at the finish the other time and I didn't get started until the last half of the bout. I'm going in for a knockout in the first round, if possible, tonight. I have an important match in the making down East and can't afford to fool."

HARGRAVES BOXES YOUNG

An eight-round semi-final and two six-round preliminaries complete tonight's card. In the semi, Ken Hargraves, Negro featherweight, of New Kensington, boxes Bobby Young, of Duquesne, who recently returned from a two-year fistic campaign in the Middle West. Dominick Profio, of Cecil, and Eddie Polo, of the North Side, a couple of larruping hitters who like to mix, are in the second event, and Tommy Ward, of the South Side, and Sammy Goldstein, of the Hill, go to it in the opener.

The management this morning requested that its patrons come as early as possible to avoid a last-minute crush at the gates and that the early arrivals go immediately into the building to prevent clogging the entrances later.

Between Rounds

Local fans will watch with interest the outcome of the 12-round battle in Cleveland tonight between Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, and Joey Goodman, of Cleveland. Goodman has knocked out Herman Perlick and beaten Maxie Shrub here and impressed the huge with his boxing and hitting. Mandell's title will not be at stake, as they will enter the ring overweight.

The following amateur boxers will represent the Pittsburgh district in an intercity show at Milwaukee next Friday night: 118 pounds, Tony Marino; 126 pounds, Johnny Warner and Don Artz; 135 pounds, Eddie Hebner; 147 pounds, Charles Crovatta, and, 160 pounds, Billy Wines.

Promoter Francis Flynn, of the Moose Temple, has landed a real socking match for his wrestling next Friday night in the pairing of Larry Madaro of Cleveland, and Tiger Joe Randall, of Elizabeth. They pack enough TNT between them to knock out a regiment.

Jack Barry, former local welterweight boxer, now matchmaker for the Erie Auditorium, has signed Paul Pirrone, of Cleveland, for his main bout next Friday night and all he needs now is an opponent for him.

The next amateur boxing show to be held in the Keystone A. C. gym likely will see a Cincinnati team opposing a local group.

Jack DeNet has returned to Cleveland, where he boxed before coming to Pittsburgh a few months ago.

...the war against Spitting is a crusade of decency... join it. Smoke CERTIFIED CREMO!

Hating "spit" as you do, wouldn't you be horrified if you suddenly discovered that the cigar you smoked was rolled by filthy fingers—and tipped with spit?

Why take chances? Smoke Certified Cremo and protect yourself against this abomination! Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods developed by the United States Government during the war. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that foil, wrap and tip the cigars without the possibility of spit!

Try a Certified Cremo—see how wonderfully good it is! Made of the choicest, tenderest leaves that the crop affords, we claim Certified Cremo's quality is tastier than that of any other cigar. Don't let its 5c price stand in your way. Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar your physician has in mind when he recommends a mild smoke in place of heavy brands.

Crush-proof . . . immaculate . . . foil-wrapped . . . Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar the late Vice-President Marshall undoubtedly had in mind when he said, "What this country needs is a good 5c cigar!"

DETROIT, Feb. 3.—After waiting seven weeks for favorable weather, the Detroit Cardinals overwhelmed the Pittsburgh Club of Pittsburgh, 6 to 1, in a second round national cup game here yesterday.

The absence of Chris Horbin in the visiting line-up weakened the Pittsburgh team, and with Jim Moreman, its scoring ace, closely watched by Phil Harris, the Pierponts were unable to get the offensive and after the early stages were completely outplayed. The lineup:

GALLATIN TOPS GLENDALE

By TOM BIRKS

The Gallatin Soccer Club Western Pennsylvania champion yesterday passed overwhelmingly into the next round of the national amateur cup by defeating Glendale, of the Chartiers Valley League, 3 to 0 in an abbreviated game at Gallatin. The contest was called 15 minutes short of the regular 90 minutes when the Glendale players physically exhausted by the hard grind in the heavy mud, were unable to continue.

The Chartiers boys had put up a brilliant battle in the first half and were the equals of the champions. At the intermission the score was 1 to 0 in favor of Gallatin, Chislogni having found the net from a scrimmage close in. The first half had taken its toll however, and after Gallatin scored twice in the last half through Grilli and Secatic the Glendale captain requested Referee Simpson to call the game.

Each club made one substitution. Rossi went in for Brogi for Gallatin and F. Bruce went in for Urtnic for Glendale.

Four other district games were played yesterday. The Horning Rovers walloped Bridgmont, 6 to 2, and the Kramers set down the Cuddy Eagles, 5 to 2. Harwick bested the Corinthians, 4 to 1.

Bill Tilden Winner In Cannes Net Final

CANNES, France, Feb. 3 (AP.)—Bill Tilden easily defeated Hermann Artens, Austria's second ranking player, in the final round of the Cannes tennis tournament today. The scores of the one-sided match were 6-0, 6-2, 6-0.

The American champion was playing in the best form he has yet shown on the Riviera. Artens, who previously had been showing well, was outclassed and he was lucky to win two games. Big Bill's whirlwind service mystified him completely.

In the doubles semi-finals today Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon beat Lyttleton Rogers of Ireland, and Erik Worm, of Denmark, 6-0, 6-3, 10-8.

the Pittsburgh team and franchise next season, the owners continue mum. However, there may be a clue in Leonard's message of regret that he will be unable to attend the Pittsburgh sports writers' big banquet in the William Penn Hotel next Thursday night because of an important business engagement in another city. It is learned that city is Buffalo, and Buffalo has been in the field for a big league hockey club for some time, planning to have the games played in Fort Erie.

Thomas Hitchcock, Jr.

THE naming of Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., not only as captain of the American polo team for this year of great international matches, but also as chairman of the defense committee, adds another notable chapter to a polo career that ranks with the most remarkable on record in any sport. Born in 1900, Hitchcock started polo playing at the age of 13. He served as a flier during the World War and 1921 was chosen for the American polo team that went to England and brought back the cup, which has remained in this country ever since. He has played on every American international team in the meantime, and is the only player in this country holding the top handicap rating of 10 goals. Lewis Lacey, of Argentina, is the only other 10-goal player in the world.

HITCHCOCK inherited much of his ability as a polo player and horseman, as both his mother and father have long been prominent in hunting and polo. His father was a member of Uncle Sam's first international team, which was defeated by Great Britain in Newport in 1886.

A Pittsburgh connection makes the younger Hitchcock's polo career one of particular interest to residents of this district. Less than a year ago he married the widow of Alexander Laughlin, Jr., who was formerly Miss Margaret Mellon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Mellon, of this city.

Trade, Stocks Better, Farm Prices Down.

—By B. C. FORBES—

A VERY good week for stock prices, an encouraging week for industry, a very bad week for farm products, notably wheat and cotton.

SELLING of wheat has all the earmarks of being overdone; the same can be said of cotton.

The drop has been relatively greater in wheat because that commodity was carried up rather fast and far on hopes that the farm board would be in some way work miracles, especially as the season's wheat yield in the New World was quite unusually light. March delivery broke below $1.14 in Chicago, palpably on speculative selling. Cotton at 16 cents in New York for March delivery and under that figure for spot supplies in New Orleans and other Southern markets, looks unduly depressed. A year ago the staple was slightly above 20 cents a pound. Having regard to the general price level and to the cost of living, our two main farm crops are too cheap to be reasonably profitable to the population engaged in their cultivation.

Just as there is sound reason for expecting standard shares to recover substantially from their panicky levels—many have already done so—so it will be logical for both wheat and cotton to command prices after the current bearing pressure relaxes.

THE financial world is awaiting with keen interest reports from our leading manufacturers of motors showing their January sales. General Motors will issue a cheerful statement, I hear. Ford will undoubtedly do the same. Some other companies, though not all, have enjoyed brisk revival in demand since the lean days toward the end of the year.

Favorable figures from the motor industry would do more than any other one thing to encourage confidence that general business is on the up-grade.

Not only so, but expanded automobile production would mean the placing of heavier orders in the many directions from where many manufacturers draw their vast supplies.

The steel industry continues to enjoy pronounced joy. It has almost doubled output since the low point touched in December—an extraordinary rebound. Whether the enlarged rate will be retained remains to be seen. The fact that prices have thus far sagged rather than strengthened is not a particularly optimistic sign.

CONSTRUCTION forecasts are more rosy than actual statistics covering the volume now under way. Washington is urging corporations to hasten the execution of planned programs. The American Federation of Labor reports that unemployment is worse even than two winters ago and that it is especially widespread in building trades. Manifestly, it would help were Washington's requests promptly heeded.

MONETARY conditions favor enterprise. For the first time in 20 months call loans were renewed on the New York Stock Exchange at the end of the week at 4 per cent which contrasts with 8 per cent a year ago.

Time money then cost 7½ per cent and now is as low as 4½ per cent. Rates for bankers' acceptances were last week lowered ½. Brokers' loans showed only nominal change (up $4,000,000), but the week brought renewed engagements of gold in Japan and Brazil, and the Federal Reserve System's reserve has risen to 79.3 per cent against 69.4 per cent 12 months ago.

The lowering of the French bank's rate—to 3 per cent—is hailed as presaging sympathetic action, first in London and then here. Obviously, the scramble for gold in Europe has subsided. Gold money is needed to stimulate trade and new financing in both France and England. The effect of a reduction in the official rediscount rate 4½ per cent in New York would be felt more in the security markets than in commercial, although the sentimental influence would cover the country.

THE stock market has pursued an entirely normal course. Average quotations gained half a dozen points for the week. Activity increased slightly, usually when prices were moving up.

Skepticism is gradually ebbing. The prevailing opinion now is that forced liquidation has been all but completed and that there is little danger of any renewed pressure of a serious nature. As a consequence, investors who were holding off to make sure that danger had definitely passed, are now beginning to enter the market, yet still timidly, not voraciously. Stocks are preferred to bonds, although influential investment banking firms have been able to float several large bond issues, apparently without difficulty.

February starts off better than did January, both business-wise and stock-market-wise.

Brown Bros & Co. Open Office Here

Brown Bros. & Co. announce the opening of an office in the Union Trust Building, under the supervision of Arthur P. Int. Cement Net Is Slightly Lower

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Although 1929 must be considered an unsatisfactory year for cement companies generally, International Cement Corporation will report only a slight decrease in profits as compared with banner year of 1928. Net earnings for 1929 will amount to nearly $5,000,000 and will be equal to better than $7.50 a share on 619,031 common shares outstanding this will compare with $5,149,400 or $7.90 a common share earned in 1928.

While 1929 operations resulted in a slight break in trend of earnings which have been steadily upward for past six years, the slight decrease shows that corporation was only to a small degree affected by price cutting which made competition the severest reported in industry in many years.

With earnings running at nearly twice common dividend requirements of $4 annually, it is reasonable to expect that shareholders may this year receive some additional distribution.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stock Rise Uneven

Lone Star Moves Up

STOCKS STAGE IRREGULAR RECOVERY

Rise Not Uniform Because Of Some Profit-Taking; Gains Outweigh Losses

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Favorable trade news from some of the basic industries provided the groundwork for an irregular recovery in prices in today's stock market, although the advance was by no means uniform because of heavy profit taking in some of the recent leaders. Scores of active issues were marked up 1 to 6 points, and a few specialties much higher. But these gains were mixed with a rather long list of 1 to 2 point declines. Trading showed a further expansion in volume, with the ticker running nearly 20 minutes behind the market at one time.

Steel mill operations were reported to have increased further last week, plants in the Chicago district running at between 85 and 90 per cent of capacity, with a lower rate of operations in the Youngstown and Pittsburgh districts. Dow Jones reports that while there has been quite an increase in the rate of ingot production since the beginning of the year and that prospects favor further gains, it is quite certain that output of U. S. Stel Corporation will not reach the high figures established in March last year. U. S. Steel common was heavy from the opening of the market until early afternoon.

COPPERS IN DEMAND

Combined shipments and bookings of the American Brass Company and the Anaconda Wire and Cable Company in January were reported to be 80 per cent of the average rate of combined shipments in 1929. This announcement started a brisk buying movement in the copper shares, which had developed a big short interest on the theory that producers would be unable to maintain the 18-cent price for the red metal. American Smelting was quickly marked up more than 3 points, Anaconda crossed 78 for a gain of more than 2 points and Kennecott and a few others advanced a point or so.

Although current traffic and earnings statements have been disappointing, the rails nevertheless presented several strong spots.

RAILROADS ADVANCE

Denver Rio Grande and Western advanced 6 points, Atchison was marked up 4⅞ points, Union Pacific and Chesapeake and Ohio each climbed more than 3 points and several others advanced a point or two. Hocking Valley, which soared 105 points last week on odd lot transactions, soared 19 more points today and then reacted 23, and Jersey Central jumped 10.

Bohn Aluminum, Continental Baking A, National Cash Register, Houston Oil, Warner Bros. Pictures, Warren Bros. and Detroit Edison sold 3 to 5 points higher.

Simmons was heavily sold in mid afternoon, dropping more than 3 points.

Storage Battery Revokes Split-Up

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3.—Directors of Electric Storage Battery Company, after reconsidering the proposed plan for increasing the number of shares of capital stock of the company, as set forth in the notice to stockholders, dated October 17, 1929, revoked that recommendation and now recommends that no change be made in the capital stock at this time.

Cal. Oil Production Up 5,500 Barrels

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3.—California daily crude oil production for week ended February 1 totaled 711,750 barrels, against 706,250 barrels week ended January 25, an increase of 5,500 barrels.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Large increase in the amount of wheat on ocean passage, together with Russian selling to Great Britain, caused sharp setbacks in wheat values early today. Export business in North American wheat over the week-end was nil. Opening at 1⅛ to 2⅜ cents off, Chicago wheat later dropped a little further, and then rallied somewhat. Corn and oats were also weaker, with corn starting ⅜ cent to ½ cent down, and subsequently continuing to sag. Provisions advanced.

Putting a heavy weight on wheat values today was announcement that supplies of wheat afloat for Europe are now 2,000,000 bushels larger than a week ago, making a total enlargement of 9,500,000 bushels in the last month. Furthermore, export offers from Russia and France were asserted to be continuing, and additional purchases of Russian wheat by Great Britain were confirmed. Official advices that the amount of wheat remaining on farms in the United States is 50,000,000 bushels less than the total a year ago failed to act as a counterbalance.

Latest Russian sales of wheat to Great Britain are stated to have been at a price apparently below that of Argentine wheat and of No. 2 hard winter wheat from the United States. However the Russian wheat is sold on sample, and a correct gauge of the equivalent is difficult. Meanwhile, stocks of wheat at Liverpool today, although slightly less than last week, are given as 7,864,000 bushels compared with 1,520,000 bushels as this time.

Withdraw Merger Pleas, Roads Advised

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Pending consolidation applications of Eastern trunk line carriers should either be withdrawn or dismissed by the Interstate Commerce Commission, Finance Director Charles D. Mahaffie, of the commission, declared in a letter sent to railroad officials, it was learned today.

The letter sent simultaneously to the Chesapeake and Ohio, Wabash and Delaware and Hudson roads, pointed out that these applications are not in accord with the commission's consolidation plan and do not present the terms or conditions under which the roads are to be acquired. He said it was his opinion that it would be useless to hold hearings on these applications in their present form.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Curb market prices fluctuated narrowly and irregularly today. Considerable attention was paid to the oil shares, in sympathy with a similar trading trend on the "big board." Utilities lost some of the buoyancy the ydisplayed late last week.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded in (00 omitted in sales colmn of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

OPTIMISM AGAIN PLAYS PART IN MARKET

Industrial Recovery and Easing of Interest Rate Make Outlook Brighter

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

(Copyright, 1930, [illegible] service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The will to be optimistic again proves a decisive motive marketwise last week.

The impulse was supported by evidence of some industrial recovery from the low point attained in December and by the further easing of interest rates. The course of interest rates emphasized the fact that the credit situation, which was causing increasing alarm as 1929 advanced, was remedied by the collapse of the bull market.

Moreover, under the stimulus of sunshine leadership in Washington, the idea gained acceptance that the recession in business would prove relatively short lived—and would mark only a temporary interruption of substantial long-term business progress.

PRICE LEVELS HIGH

With the lunatic fringe largely out of the market there was a disposition to test out the character of the rally by heavy realizing sales as average prices reached the December 7 post-panic rally peak. As the new week opens, average prices are about at the highest levels since the Wall street debacle, and a struggle is now under way between conflicting speculative groups. Any further substantial rally from this level would be regarded as significant by the chart readers. On the other hand, failure to carry on would precipitate additional profit taking, and would doubtless cause a technical reaction.

Apart from these minor swings the profits will be made this year in my opinion by analysts who approach stocks from an investment viewpoint.

The new speculative interest in the copper stocks rests on the assumption that the copper producers will win out at least during the first quarter in their dramatic clash with consumers. The copper companies have been making a sturdy effort to peg the price of the red metal at 18 cents, and have stood adamant against a virtual buyers' strike, deciding to curtail production sharply rather than reduce prices.

PROGRAM CURTAILED

Meantime, consumers have operated on a hand-to-mouth basis. The new curtailment program does not become immediately effective, but foreshadows shorter stocks a month or two ahead. Evidently the copper producers are resting their case on the chance that business may be substantially better in the second quarter, and thus support their strategy to keep the price up.

Parenthetically, it should be observed that the copper maneuver is in tune with post-war modernistic ideas of industrial rationalization, rather than in keeping with the business philosophy which animated the Congress which passed the Sherman anti-trust law in 1890.

As a result of the policy of the copper producers, the demand for scrap copper appears to be growing in all parts of the world. That uncontrolled factor may eventually help to put on the brakes.

Futhermore, looking further ahead, the continuance of high prices for the metal is encouraging promoters to work new copper mines. The demand for capital for this purpose is said to be unprecedently large. Some of the big Wall Street underwriters, however, who are in sympathy with the American copper companies, are likely to think twice before financing hazardous projects which might threaten to upset the apple cart.

Current copper experience opens a new chapter in organized handling of a major raw materials.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3.—Baldwin locomotive works shipments in January amounted to $2,000,000 against only $500,000 in January, 1929. Bookings during the month amounted to $2,985,000, compared to $1,999,000 in January, 1929. Since December 1, last, Baldwin has taken on $13,500,000 in business.

Operations are gradually being expanded and will reach their highest market for some time in the second quarter of the year.

Stock Market in New High Average Ground at Month's Inception

THE beginning of the new month finds the stock market in new high average ground for the recovery from the low levels of the break experienced several months ago. At the moment prices are not sufficiently above the high of early December to be looked upon as definitely establishing the outlook for a further substantial advance. But the fact remains that prices as measured by the averages broke through the previous top for the first time Friday. The previous high for 90 stocks used in the weighted index compiled by Standard Statistics, Inc., was reached on December 7 at 180.5. It was at this point that the initial phase of the rally from the November lows was checked with a subsequent drop of more than 20 average points to a low of 160.1 by December 20. The creeping forward movement now in progress for nearly a fortnight had by the close Friday lifted the average to 181.0.

Latest figures released by the Treasury Department revealing the contributions of the tobacco industry to the government's internal revenue receipts, show that business to be an increasingly profitable source of revenue to the federal coffers. Cigaret manufacturers paid a total of $356,203,753 to the government in internal revenue taxes for 1928, an increase of $39,400,000 over the total of $317,833,335 paid in for 1928. This would indicate an increase of some 13 per cent in cigaret production last year over the previous year. Additional revenues paid by tobacco manufacturers on other products brought the total for the year to $449,058,963 as against $411,016,098 paid by the industry as a whole in 1928.

WALL STREET expects the General Motors report in preliminary form for 1929 will be available within a week or so. The improved market action of the stock is attributed to buying on that score, plus the more encouraging reports coming from principal motor manufacturing centers over last week. Unofficial forecasts place probable net for the year at the equivalent of between $5.25 and $5.50 a share on the 43,500,000 common shares of $1 par value now outstanding. This would compare with the equivalent of $6.15 a share indicated on present common capitalization in 1928. It would indicate that net for the final quarter ran between 30 and 50 cents a share as compared with the equivalent of 77 cents a share shown for the last quarter of 1928.

New York and Harlem, comprising the properties over which the New York Central lines come into New York City proper, attracted considerable attention last week by reason of its spectacular rise. Though an active issue, appearing infrequently on the tape, it enjoys periods of sporadic activity at intervals. Transactions involving 530 shares in odd lots Friday were sufficient to carry it up 47 points net, and Saturday the stock spurted another 34 points moving around the 300 level. The company is operated under lease by the New York Central, which owned at the end of 1927 $5,551,400 of the total of $8,656,650 of its common stock outstanding. In view of Central's plans for consolidation it is generally believed that the floating supply of New York and Harlem has been further substantially reduced since that time.

IMPORTANT accumulation is reported to be going on in United Corporation. The belief prevails that the stock is probably selling several points below the present liquidating value of its holdings, which include United Gas Improvement common, Niagara Hudson Power common, Public Service of New Jersey common, Commonwealth and Southern and Columbia Gas. Large blocks of these shares are held and since the utilities have recently been moving upward their value naturally has been enhanced.

Indications of a large consumption of tin plate this year because of the activities of the can manufacturing companies should be advantageous for McKeesport Tin Plate. The company has done well in the past. One thing lacking is market sponsorship for the stock and there is evidence that this is likely to develop in the near future. McKeesport Tin Plate has been showing periods of quiet accumulation in the past few weeks.

Mill Improvements Aid Jones & Laughlin

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation, which succeeded the Jones and Laughlin Steel Company at the close of 1922, established a new high record in earnings in 1929.

A large part of the earnings of each year has been turned back into the business. The steady reinvestment of earnings in physical properties has made the company one of the lowest cost producers in the steel business without increasing the capitalization during this period.

Net profit after taxes, depreciation, depletion, interest deductions and pension fund appropriations in 1929 was $20,398,749, which was equivalent to $28.26 a share earned on the 576,320 shares of common stock after deducting preferred dividends. The preliminary statement of earnings made last week did not include the pension fund appropriation.

This compares with $15,368,687 or $19.55 a share in 1928 and with $11,088,939 or $12.28 a share in 1927.

Earnings Gain.

Year.	*Net Profit.	Per Share.
1929	$20,398,749	$28.26
1928	15,368,687	19.55
1927	11,038,939	12.23
1926	14,899,094	19.03
1925	9,854,494	10.22
1924	8,194,384	7.45
1923	10,303,528	10.71

*After all charges including pension fund.

In spite of the sharp curtailment in demand for steel during the final months of 1929 the company made a fairly satisfactory showing for the last quarter. Net profit after all charges, but before pension fund appropriations, was $3,832,836 or $4.90 a share compared with $5,690,226 or $8.09 a share in the preceding quarter and with $3,919,234 or $5.02 a share in the corresponding quarter of the previous year.

This was the first quarter since the period ended March 31, 1928, which did not show a gain over the corresponding three months of the preceding year.

Outlook Brighter.

THE present outlook for the steel business is somewhat brighter, as a sharp revival in activity has made prospects considerably more cheerful than they were at the beginning of the year.

Steel making operations of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation are concentrated at two points in the Pittsburgh district. One is located on the Monongahela River in Pittsburgh and the other is at Aliquippa on the Ohio River about 20 miles below Pittsburgh.

Both plants are fully integrated operations which can carry out every phase of steel making from the production of by-product coke and pig iron to the rolling of finished products.

The company ships coal from its own mines on the upper Monongahela in its own fleet of river barges. Shipments of finished products to the West, South and Southwest are also made by river and rail at a substantial saving in freight costs.

Makes Most Products.

THE company makes practically all the steel products except standard steel rails and sheets. The wide range of its products gives the organization a marketing advantage.

The steel trade generally considers that the company has been fortunate in the selection of George G. Crawford as its new president. His wide range of operating experience has made him an especially valuable man to the organization. Before coming to Jones and Laughlin he was president of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Co. and previous to that he was connected with Carnegie Steel and National Tube.

The company has an exceptionally small funded debt for a steel producer of its size. The balance sheet of December 31, 1929, will not be made public for several weeks, but it is expected to show an even smaller funded debt than at the end of 1928, when this item amounted to $12,656,000. This was against physical properties carried at $123,925,459 after depreciation. Preferred stock amounted to $58,715,100 at December 31, 1928.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

American Brake Shoe and Foundry Company reports for year ended December 31 net profit of $3,256,230 after charges, depreciation and federal taxes, equal after preferred dividends to $3.71 a share on 800,348 shares no par common. In addition, the company's equity in undivided profits of associated companies for 1929 amounted to $1,236,137, including this item, earnings for the year equal $5.30 a common share. In 1928 net profit was $3,108,121 or $3.57 a share on 664,108 common shares and including $490,216 equity in associated companies, earnings equalled $4.29 a share.

Commonwealth Edison Company reports for 1929 net income of $16,067,877, after all charges and taxes equal to $12.03 a share on 1,324,143 shares of capital stock as compared with net of $14,471,462 or $12.53 a share on 1,205,138 shares for 1928.

Commercial Investment Trust reports year ended December 31 net income $8,132,610 after charges equal after preferred dividends to $4.47 on 1,724,202 average common shares against $3,278,282 or $3.66 on 1,150,230 average common shares in 1928 year.

S. S. Kresge Company reports year ended December 31 net income $14,902,231 after charges and federal taxes equal after preferred dividends to $4.50 a share on 3,311,202 average common shares against $13,642,853 or $4.24 on 3,078,619 common shares in 1928 year.

Letters From One's Dear Public

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.

AS PER the agreement entered into between the editor of here and his subscribers, the following are excerpts from some letters in reply to the recent column titled, "Why I Think I Ought to Go to Heaven." The replies, while abundant, were disappointing, most of the critics "pulling their punches," as D. Parker, the oracle, would put it. Many of the letter-writers, one means to say, acted in the kibitzer manner, proffering one or two straight-from-the-shoulder wallops but winding up their missives along sentimental lines like this: "But I wish you go to hell because I've always wanted to meet you some day."

Mr. J. J. Pollard, the vice-president of the Pollard & Bagby, Inc., of Richmond, Va., avers: "Another reason why you will go to hell is because you are so consistent. You have never said anything good about anyone. P. S.—I might add that no one has ever said anything good about you."

HOME FOR KNOCKERS

HERBERT SCHENCKER of 1507 Popham avenue, Bronx, N. Y., contends: "You are bound for hell because you always knock people."

"Any person," indignantly writes Betty Shipman of 359 W. Fifty-second street, New York, "who admits that he kicked a woman right back because she kicked him, stamps himself as a no-good, which you certainly are."

"I assure you," assures B. M. Knobel, of Washington, D. C., "that you will meet many of your friends in hell because of your creed."

"I hope you roast in hell for all the people you've toasted up here," writes J. K., of Pittsburgh, Pa.

"You were bound for Heaven because you helped such unfortunates as Truly Shattuck, Sammy Levy and 'Miserable One' when they were in distress," write Mrs. G. Carter, of Chicago, "but when you invaded the privacy of the Lindberghs you put yourself on a greasy pole headed for Hades!"

SNOOP TERM SUGGESTED

WILLIAM DARCY, of 54 Front street, N. Y., thinks Hell is too good for "people like you" and suggests a fitting punishment would be to force us to become a prohibition enforcement agent.

"My dear Mr. Winchell," writes H. E. G., from New Haven, Conn., "I just read your 'Heaven' column in the Register and note how you put down the commendable things you've done 'but all our own righteousness are as filthy rags, according to God's word, 'which endures forever'."

"Personally I don't care where you go," writes Wm. T. Luck, of Salem, Va., "but may I quote from the book upon which such beliefs are generally based?—'The Pharisee stood and prayed thus with himself: God, I thank Thee that I am not as other men are.'"

"You rate a place in Hell because you keep reminding us that you were once a hoofer in vaudeville when we are all trying our best to forget it."—Hy. D. Seigel, State Assembly, Albany, N. Y.

PUN-CH IN THE I

"YOU will go below because you are too much of an 'I' man and you're not an optician, either!"—J. Resnick, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"You will go to hell," writes Bessie Croydon, of Los Angeles, Calif., "not because there are no halos in Heaven for you, as Lillian D., told you, but because there are no halos up there big enough to fit your head!"

"Dear Mr. Winchell," affectionately writes Wm. Ates, of 960 Kelly St., Bronx, N. Y., "you will certainly go to hell if you don't stop wasting perfectly good space with the drivel your so-called column occupies!"

"Dear Mr. Winchell, my reason why I think you should go to h—— is that you certainly are most insulting the way you say those nasty things about Rudy Vallee, who I think is a real American boy, and I guess I ought to know."—Albert Hallporn, Yale '27, 37 W. 72nd St.

THEN ON THE O. H.

"IF you don't keep that mug Rudy Vallee out of the column I hope you go to Hell!"—Michael Griffin, 320 57th St., Brooklyn.

"You are certain to find a warm spot down there," writes Gertruude Haslup, of New Orleans, La., "because you are always praising George Jean Nathan, who is a devil in sheik clothing."

Edward J. McQuade, of 81 Sackett street, Providence, R. I., writes: "You make me sick trying to give the impression that you do not like to get gloriously drunk when up here we hear the wildest tales of how you can be found in the corners of any night club on Broadway plastered to the gills, and other things about you that you wouldn't dare to print in the paper so why should I bother to waste my time is what I'd like to know."

"Because you are such a gossip is one reason you can go to hell!" writes Mary Ann Grandbois, of Montreal, Que.

FROM A MOTHER'S HEART

"MY dear Mr. Winchell: I wouldn't condemn you to hell for the one thing I hold against you, but it certainly was a sacrilege that no one can deny. Being a mother and knowing with what reticence a woman divulges the secret of 'the act of God' I can never forgive you for making known that Anne Lindbergh is to become a mother. True it is of immense interest to the world, but it was out of place in your column and certainly should not have been made public at such an early date. Are all newspapermen so mercenary?"—Virginia Berg, Lamar, S. C.

J. M. Alden, of Box 165, Madison, Wis., forwarded a lot of reasons but failed to "keep them clean" as was urged.

Readers from Cleveland, Wichita Falls, Tex.; Scranton, Pa.; San Francisco, Baltimore, Akron, Louisville, Kansas City, Kokomo, Portland, Me.; Superior, Wis.; Tampa, Fla.; St. Louis, Buffalo, Springfield, Mo.; Worcester, Mass.; Glen's Falls, N. Y.; Sherman, Tex.; Columbus, O.; Atlanta, Evansville and Detroit were abusive enough but space does not permit. Mr. Winchell's little man therefore closes the discussion but thanks all concerned for promptly responding, which made quite an impression on King Features, the syndicate handling our act.

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

THE BUNGLE FAMILY

Yesterday

By Tuthill

A NEWS ITEM CONCERNING A DISTANT HOT-DOG KING NAMED BUNGLE, AND GEORGE'S BELIEF THAT THERE'S ALWAYS ROOM FOR ONE MORE IN HIS FAMILY TREE, BROUGHT PONTOON BUNGLE HERE ON A VISIT
PONTOON BUNGLE! WELCOME TO OUR CITY!
AND ALTHOUGH THE FAMILY RECORDS WERE SEARCHED IN VAIN FOR PONTOON'S NAME, THE BUNGLES WERE EVEN MORE ENTHUSIASTIC THAN GEORGE IN WELCOMING A MILLIONAIRE TO THE FAMILY
I UNDERSTAND HE DOESN'T LOOK ONE BIT LIKE ANY OF THE BUNGLES BUT—
SWEET. LET'S JUST KEEP AN OPEN MIND ABOUT THAT UNTIL WE SEE HIM FACE TO FACE. LET'S NOT BE TOO HARDBOILED WITH A MAN SIMPLY BECAUSE HE HAS LOTS OF MONEY.
HOWEVER, MOST OF THE BUNGLES WHO CALLED ON PONTOON EARLY TO AVOID THE RUSH SUCCEEDED ONLY IN RENEWING FEUDS WITH THE VIGILANT COLONEL
WE KNOW LAW! IN REFUSING TO LET US SEE OUR OWN RELATIVE YOU'RE OFFICIALLY VIOLATING THE CONSTITUTION OF THE U. S.
NO MATTER. HE'S TAKING A NAP. GOOD BYE!
THE IDEA THAT WE CAN'T SEE OUR OWN RELATIVE.
AND THEN SEVERAL DAYS AGO THE UNANIMOUSLY POPULAR MEMBER OF THE FAMILY WENT OUT FOR A SHORT STROLL, AND DID NOT RETURN.
AFTER LUNCH HE LAID DOWN FOR A NAP. AT TWO O'CLOCK HE GOT UP AND I FIXED HIM A PLATE OF NOODLES. THEN HE SAID HE'D TAKE A LITTLE WALK.
NOODLES! THEY NEVER AGREED WITH HIM BUT HE LOVED 'EM. IT'S NOW 7:19. MY WORD. WHERE COULD HE BE?

These and other curiosities will be investigated by our Stranger-Than-Fiction-Bureau, which has been mounted on wheels (above) in order to compete against other imitators of Professor Ripley. Later we hope to lay tracks to all corners of the globe. Readers are invited to send in proof of any statement we make.

Interest Money Due Us Can Replace Earned Income Tax

The most oppressive and unfair of federal taxes is the tax on earned incomes.

The earning period of working men and women is limited. The fruits of their brief labors should not be taken from them if the revenue needs of the federal government can be met in any other way.

They can be so met. Congress can immediately abolish the tax in earned income, if it desires. A substitute source of revenue is at hand, simple and satisfactory.

The last figures are for 1927. In that year this particular tax yielded a total of $100,000,000. It will not yield over $125,000,000 in 1930.

Where can the government get the money to replace this revenue if the tax on earned incomes is abolished entirely?

The revenue can be supplied by putting into the public treasury the interest payments that foreign governments make on their war debts to our government. This amounts to $160,000,000 a year, which is more than the yield of the earned income tax.

Foreign governments pay us about $200,000,000 a year, of which $160,000,000 is interest on their debt and $40,000,000 is repayment of its principal.

The law requires that the $40,000,000 of principal payments shall be applied to debt reduction: Buying of Liberty bonds and retiring them.

There is no such requirement as to the use of the $160,000,000 of interest payments. This sum each year could have been put into the treasury, but Secretary Mellon has chosen to use it for debt retirement.

Now the Secretary says that the debt has been retired too fast. There is no reason for using this $160,000,000 for retirement purposes, since the taxpayers are ALREADY supplying $400,000,000 a year for a sinking fund to cancel Liberty bonds.

The only possible complication is that most of the foreign government payments are made not in money but in the form of Liberty bonds which they buy in the open market below par and turn in at par. Secretary Mellon can solve this problem.

Let Congress vote to abolish the tax on earned incomes and direct Secretary Mellon to replace that revenue with interest payments made by foreign governments.

Afraid to Fly

Don't Blame the PUBLIC.

They will find the answer in a recent dispatch from Kansas City:

"State warrants charging criminal negligence on the part of Central Airlines, subsidiary of Universal Aviation Corporation, in connection with the crash of a cabin monoplane here last night will be asked today, Dr. Ben F. Coffin, Wyandotte County Coroner, announced this morning.

"Dr. Coffin declared that he believed the airline officials should be held CRIMINALLY LIABLE FOR HAMPERING THE OFFICIAL INVESTIGATION INTO THE CRASH WHICH KILLED FIVE PERSONS.

"Richard H. Lees, Jr., inspector for the aeronautical branch of the Department of Commerce, also protested the action of the airline's employes in destroying the wrecked plane."

A photographer tells how airline employes, ARMED WITH AXES, stood around the wreckage, which appeared to have been chopped into small pieces. Some were using hacksaws to cut up the cabin framework, he declares.

He says, also, that one employe told another:

"You shouldn't have said a word to that photographer. You should have picked up something and knocked his brains out. We're not going to have any picture of this wreck and that's all there is to it."

Some of our airplane lines, evidently, have learned nothing from history and are equally devoid of common sense.

They should recall the experience of railroads, which formerly tried to hush up every accident, destroy all the evidence, bully or beat up anybody who attempted to get the facts.

Those tactics were so thoroughly resented by the public that railroads were forced to abandon them.

The public demanded SAFE TRAVEL, and got it by fully investigating every wreck, thus averting FUTURE wrecks.

Airlines can learn something to their advantage from that.

They make the welkin ring with propaganda about the speed, luxury, economy and safety of air travel, MOST OF IT TRUE.

It is wasted breath, however, when incidents occur like that described from Kansas City.

The public WANTS to fly, but will refuse to as long as the risks of flying are hushed up or lied about.

It is up to the airlines to COME CLEAN.

Thin Men Good-Natured

They Proved It.

Thin men are more genial and even-tempered than fat men, a Paris debating society decided recently after the stormiest session in its history. And it was founded, by the way, during the French Revolution.

Georges Ploch, noted author and critic, nearly carried the day for the corpulent by declaring:

"You all know that fat persons radiate good humor, are jovial and filled with the joy of living. Lean and hungry men are high strung, apt to talk back to their wives, and are responsible for both domestic and public uprisings."

Cries of "That's a lie—a bas, Ploch," came from the thin men in the audience, who then demonstrated their claims to a sunshiny disposition by hurling missiles at the speaker and breaking up the meeting.

Much Noise, Slight Effect -:- Drawn by Nelson Harding

Once more the hunter takes the gun,
The firing will begin again,
But though well-meaning is the aim,
The snake will suffer little pain.

Though loud reports will soon be heard,
The serpent scarcely will be bruised,
The shooting's only flash and smoke,
Unless real cartridges are used. —N. H.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

The Splinter Trust

If a lobbyist is a man without a country it isn't because he didn't try to buy it.

The congressional investigation into the gyrations and skidovers of the splinter trust has had remarkable results.

"Bugs" Baer

After reading and listening to the star-spangled catechism of the elusive lobbisters we believe that a question a day keeps the answer away.

There are many mysterious jay-walkers in our national capital who seem to inhale their substance from the air like a Japanese fern and whose emoluments are as elusive as the dew on the eggplant.

They spin not neither do they toil. But like the lilies of the field they make a darned nice bouquet.

They are the official weight-guessers of prosperity.

They carry two spare tires for emergency bankrolls, take singing lessons in the whispering gallery, always nod from north to south and have lumpy underwear around the ankles.

These flank scouts of big business are in Washington to see that their clients get a square roll with loaded dice. Every once in a reformed while, these gentlemen are invited to be the guests of honor at an intellectual autopsy that is just as much lost motion as blowing on jellied consomme.

Whether they represent the Society for Parking Chewing Gum on Chair Legs or the American Federation for the Perpetuation of Paper Napkins, they never get hay fever from sleeping in straw piles.

They are always courteous and suave to congressional investigators and a threat of fine and imprisonment always reminds them that they forgot to have their shoes shined.

There have been hundreds of investigations in Washington and not one of them has ever succeeded in discovering why the toast always falls on the buttered side.

Parliamentary procedure limits the investigation and diminishes the death rate. The inquisitive courtiers insult each other all day with the question of seniority carefully protected. You can say anything you want in Congress provided that it's your turn and the chair has given you the floor.

Some day, the boys are going to get a load of parliamentary procedure, go around behind the barn, take off their coats and instead of tabling the resolution they will box the corpse.

PROHIBITION PLAYS A JOKER

By Herbert Kaufman

A LARGE body of citizens object to the Eighteenth Amendment because they do not believe in prohibition in ANY form.

Another considerable group holds that moral regulation is NOT a constitutional function. Many of the country's very distinguished lawyers insist that the Federal Government has no more inherent right to declare what we shall DRINK than to determine what we shall EAT.

And there are millions of Americans, STILL strongly opposed to the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, who have grown so disgusted with the hypocrisies and ruthlessness of enforcement, that they would rather see the Volstead Act LIBERALIZED and the Jones Act REPEALED, than suffer an indefinite continuance of the undemocratic processes through which the Eighteenth Amendment must apparently be validated.

HIS oath of office specifically designates him as the dispassionate servant and sworn defender of the Constitution; and under that oath, he is committed to execute every enactment of Congress, which body ALONE may establish Federal legislation and penalties—or REVOKE them.

But it IS the President's constant duty to investigate the circumstances of all administration, and his prerogative to submit conclusions based upon such surveys for House and Senate consideration.

Accordingly, he has requested Congress to consider certain recommendations from the Wickersham Commission, among which is partial abolition of the immemorial right of jury trial for misdemeanors.

The Wickersham Committee, however, seems ill-advised in urging that minor prohibition offenses be tried before United States Commissioners.

IF Congress consents to this expedient for the clearing of crowded dockets, the sacredest franchise of the Anglo-Saxon peoples will be imperiled.

Since the days of King John, English-speaking folk have never been denied recourse to trial by their peers.

And because we continue to control that bulwark against judicial extremity and incompetence, the rabidities of Puritanism and the tyrannical purposes of the Anti-Saloon League have been LARGELY defeated.

The sudden willingness of the House Judiciary Committee—notoriously under bluenose control—to report the Dyer and Sabbath bills—after ten years' refusal to submit SIMILAR measures to open debate—is a subtly laid trap for the wets—a finesse borrowed from military strategy.

THE drys are offering Greek gifts to modification. They haven't the slightest intention of seriously considering 2.75 beer or of setting Uncle Sam up in the dispensary business. They simply aim to distract popular attention from the Commissioner issue.

Bishop Cannon and Clarence True Wilson would rather capture the hip flask and cocktail shaker in that politically controlled office, than in any precedent-restricted courtroom.

Once they succeed, the entire influence of militant churchdom and its allies will be concentrated upon securing the exclusive appointment of hanging Commissioners — bigots chosen with a record of life-long zeal for the White Ribbon cause.

And it's dollars to crullers that they'll GET BY with it.

The prohibition muddle appears destined to pass from bad to WORSE before the Republic wakes to the realization of its BETRAYAL by false stewards.

Meanwhile, that haircloth shirt wardrobe in the White House bids fair to find another ticklish situation added to the collection.

∴ LISTEN, WORLD! ∴

By Elsie Robinson

JUST been listening to Milly's voice over the phone and I certainly feel SUNK.

You know that" kind of a voice . . .

Naggy . . . laggy . . . saggy . . . raggy . . . comes adraggin' in over the wire . . . makes you want to reach down into the receiver and YANK it out. What a cramp a voice like that can put in a busy morning. One minute you're ready to lick the world . . . and the next you have glue in your carburetor!

Yes, I suppose there's a reason for them. Grief . . . disappointment . . . fear. But what of it? Why advertise the fact? What does it buy anyone to go around exhibiting a Raw, Suffering Soul?

SOULS SHOULD BE COVERED AS WELL AS SHAPES.

Feeling mad? Feeling sad? PUT ON AN ACT!

Wish you were happier? THEN ACT AS IF YOU WERE!

Wish you were luckier? THEN MAKE BELIEVE YOU ARE!

Set the stage for happiness. . . . Dress the part for luck! Pep up that voice! Tighten that jaw! Hang out a grin!

PUT ON AN ACT!

What's this I'm giving you . . . "glad girl" philosophy? Not on your life. This is real psychology . . . and real religion, too.

ACT THE THING YOU WANT TO BE AND YOU'LL BE THAT THING!

"Laugh and the world will laugh with you" . . . and, what's much more important, you'll also laugh with yourself.

"Weep and you'll weep alone" . . . you bet you will! They'll beat it when they see you coming. And why not? The other fellow has enough grief of his own without strapping yours on to his mud guards.

Register health and happiness, confidence and success and you'll BE them.

LUCK IS WHAT YOU MAKE IT!

LIFE IS AS YOU TAKE IT!

Take it crawling . . . and they'll treat you as a worm. Take it standing . . . and you'll win the round!

Never mind how you're FEELING. Don't wait to feel happy, don't wait to feel brave. Beat your feelings to it. Put your act on first. . . . then the rest will follow.

Seeing you, they'll say, "Gee, this guy is happy . . . guess I'll stick around!" . . . "Say, this boy looks peppy . . . how about that job"—

That's how luck comes, brother—When YOU'VE set the stage.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

ITS method of feeding is as elementary as its locomotion; it consumes microscopic plants, other creatures like itself, and so on, and, lacking a definite mouth, it takes them in indiscriminately at any point on its surface; it simply flows over them and round them, and, thus embracing them in three dimensio s, gets them into its own body.

And when it has exhausted their nutritive possibilities it flows away from them, abandoning them from any point at the surface of its body.

H. G. Wells.

The individual is prowling about among a number of crescent-shaped microscopic plants; it has recently consumed three of them, and is dragging them along in its hinder part and slowly digesting them.

There are numerous species of amoebae, living for the most part in fresh or sea-water or in damp soil.

Some of them are parasitic, living in our bowels (which seem to have an irresistible attraction for microscopic organisms, for they are populated by a great variety of different kinds), and although most of the parasitic amoebae are harmless, there is one species that causes a serious form of dysentry.

The amoeba represented belongs to a kind found in ponds; it is called a "limax amoeba," because it crawls smoothly and steadily forward in one direction like a slug (limax is Latin for slug).

Another common kind is the "proteus amoeba," which has an even less definite shape; its body-jelly can flow out into lobes at any point over the surface, and by throwing out a lobe and then flowing forwards into it, so to speak, the creature moves from place to place.

In this liquidly, gelatinous body two defininte structures are suspended. The first is an obvious, transparent sphere, situated near the hinder end of the body—a hollow sphere, filled with a watery fluid.

If it is carefully watched, this sphere can be seen to grow slowly larger and larger until ultimately it bursts like a bubble, squirting its contents through the clear skin into the outer world.

Then, in a little while, a tiny drop reappears, grows again, bursts again—and so on, with a rhythm of several minutes from burst to burst. This structure is called the contractile vacuole.

There is an apparent parallel between its behavior and the slow accumulation and roughly periodic expulsion of fluid that occurs in the human bladder, and for a long time the contractile vacuole was regarded as a special excretory organ for getting rid of the waste-products of the creature's activity.

But, as a matter of fact, it is an organ for getting rid of water. The inside of the amoeba, like our own insides, contains salt and other dissolved substances, and these substances, by a simple physical process, are constantly sucking water in through the surface of the amoeba from the outside.

In technical language the dissolved salts set up an osmotic pressure inward. The water has to be everlastingly baled out again by the contractile vacuole, because otherwise the animal would swell up and liquefy.

This, by the way, is only true of fresh water amoebae; in amoebae which live in the sea, since the amount of dissolved salts is the same without and within, there is an osmotic balance and no inward water-leakage and therefore no contractile vacuole.

Most of the chemical interchanges between amoeba and its environment—the absorption of oxygen, the discharge of carbon dioxide and other matters—occur indiscriminately over its whole surface and need no special organ.

The second structure is one we have already remarked in the tissue-cells of the higher types—the nucleus.

It completes a very striking resemblance that may already have become apparent to the reader between the anatomy and general behavior of amoeba and that of a white blood corpulse, or of an isolated cell creeping in a tissue-culture.

Both are of a size and both are masses of living protoplasm without enduring form. It is possible, because of this great similarity of organization, to look upon an amoeba as a single cell which is living by itself instead of being part of a body-community, and for this reason amoeba is generally called a single-celled or "unicellular" organism.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Lay watching a snowfall through a window and dropped off into a hideous nightmare, awakening with my head caught in a night table. Breakfasted with Bide Dudley, who is writing another play, and Amos and Andy, the radio boys, called and we had a long talk.

Came Charles A. Hughes, the Detroit pamphleteer, to show me the photograph of his beautiful young daughter and drove him to Baird Leonard's and then with my wife to see Kathleen and Charles Norris, on their annual visit from California, and a distinguished gathering there.

In the evening to a theatrical opening and saw Patricia Ziegfeld in an evening frock, having become almost a grown up lady. After the play with some others to a night place in Harlem but so depressing we left in 10 minutes. So home to bed.

First night theatrical regulars miss the veteran Percy Hammond, who has packed his portable and is voyaging around the world with his wife. While ostensibly on "a leave of absence" there are rumors he has permanently abandoned reviewing and upon his return will devote himself to the leisurely writing of a book or so along with an occasional magazine article.

* * *

Hammond, who is 57, has attended more opening nights than any living critic. He has been a familiar figure, portly and ruddy-cheeked, drooping in his down front aisle chair year after year. To many he expressed a half-lidded indifference and his expression rarely changed yet not a word or gesture escaped him. He loved to juggle words and phrases and his euphonious eulogies have sent many admirers thumbing the dictionary. Hammond was born in Cadiz, O., married a school day sweetheart of that village and scored his first conspicuous success as a critic in Chicago. He was reputed the highest salaried reviewer in town.

A horse back rider in Central Park, who was swept from his runaway horse by a mounted patrolman, has shown his appreciation without embarrassing the hero with an outright gift. He has taken out a $50,000 insurance policy on the patrolman's life, making his family beneficiaries.

Al Smith is installed in his pent house at 51 Fifth avenue. His neighbors directly across the street are George W. Olvany and Police Commissioner Whalen and the section has become known as "Little Tammany," to sight-seeing bus barkers.

Phoenix, Ariz., is a popular spot for hundreds of New Yorkers this winter. It has especially attracted sinus victims. The sinus, as a conversational topic, is to Phoenix what the appendix used to be on the hotel porches a few years ago.

Washington Mews, that row of shambling barns made over into pleasant studios, is resenting the invasion of a taxi stand. For years it has been the last refuge of romanticism—a cloister, untainted by gasoline smells, for artists, writers and sculptors. Many have become distinguished. It stretches from University place to Fifth avenue and is a replica of one of those queer old world turns where one steps out of a mighty jangle into churchyard quiet.

* * *

Among other creative souls in Washington Mews is a photographer—I can scarcely wait to pop off this one—with a new "slant." He places his subjects in a reclining position on the floor while he snaps them from the top of a step ladder.

O. Henry dreamed of living in the Mews when his ship came in. The property is owned by Sailor Snug Harbor and many say its life is short, a skyscraper project already having doomed it.

From a current novel: "He became suddenly conscious of the lunar luminosity of an otherwise sedately gibbous moon and was bewilderingly entranced."

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

ARE you encouraging your son or daughter to choose friends among those whose parents are able to afford them many luxuries, and then do you complain about their expensive habits?

Do you send your children to an expensive school and then object to the amount they must have to keep up?

You want them to make their friends and acquaintances among those of a certain standard of living and class of society.

Necessarily there is a demand for specific expenditures if they do their part in social activities.

You desire them to take their places in this way and then grumble when you receive requests for money.

In the first place was it not your own fault that your children have selected the sort of companions they have? Did you not place them in a position to meet and make friends among those who entertain lavishly?

Why then do you object to their fulfilling their obligations? You knew all along that it takes money to keep up, and you thrust them there.

Isn't it up to you to see them through?

Should you complain about doing so?
